Newfoundland Blaze Kills Mansfielder Due Home for Visit

Pfc. Frank M. Yirga Perished In Fire Which Took Toll of 100; Word of Death Dashes Homecoming Plans.

The joy of preparing for the Christmas homecoming of a soldier-son was turned into sorrow today when a Mansfield father and mother learned that the disastrous Newfoundland fire had claimed the life of their son along with 100 others last Saturday night.

Pfc. Frank M. Yirga, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Yirga, 543 Daisy street, was among the three American soldiers who died in the blaze which swept the Knights of Columbus hall in St. Johns, N. F. The other American victims, identified by the Eastern Defense Command, were Pfc Edward B. Ford, Pittston, Pa., and Technician, 5th grade, Henry L. Kennedy, Glens Falls, N. Y.

PFC. FRANK M. YIRGA

Yirga was the second Mansfielder to die in a major fire within three weeks. On Nov. 28 Howard A. Guy, 37, night club entertainer, lost his life in the Cocoanut Grove holocaust in Boston. In many respects the Newfoundland fire was startlingly similar to the Boston tragedy.

First word of Yirga's death was received here today through newspaper wire services whose dispatches identified the only three American soldier victims in the disaster. Canadian Navy Minister Angus MacDonald disclosed in Ottawa that at least 30 Canadian service men had perished.

No official announcement concerning their son's death has been received as yet by the Yirga family. His parents learned only two weeks ago of the son's anticipated Christmas visit. The Mansfield private had been stationed in Newfoundland nearly six months and had been home at Easter time shortly before he sailed.

Fears that two other Mansfielders stationed in Newfoundland might have been in the hotel at the time it was razed by fire were allayed somewhat by the news release today. Benedict Dillon, son of Mrs. Frank Dillon, 188 Sturges avenue, and a cousin, Glen Dillon, son of Paul Dillon, 170 Glessner avenue, are the only other Mansfielders known to be located there.

Benedict, better known as "Dick," and Yirga were stationed in the same camp and were great chums. The cousin was located in another camp some distance away. Another Mansfield soldier, Jack

Flames Sweep Two Boston Business Blocks, Injuring 42

BOSTON—(UP)—Fire roared through two business blocks in the heart of Boston's shopping district early today, injuring 34 coast guardsmen and eight firemen and causing damage expected to total more than $1,000,000.

It was the third major fire in Boston within a month, 16 days after the Cocoanut Grove night club holocaust that took 488 lives.

A dozen specialty shops and professional offices were swept by the flames but major damage was in Sallinger's, an expensive women's clothing store where huge Christmas stocks and furs were destroyed.

Thousands of spectators were ordered from the area by Deputy Fire Chief William F. Quigley, who feared that a wall of the six-story Armory building would collapse.

The fire started in the basement of Sallinger's, ate through the ceiling and spread to an adjoining bakery shop.

Two alarms were sounded and firemen who responded appeared to have halted the fire. But it cut through partitions and broke out on the opposite side of the

TIRED CONGRESS ADJOURNS TODAY

Longest Session In History Sees Passage of War and Giant Tax Bills.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Work-worn and weary, the 77th congress comes to the end of its legislative life today after an historic two-year struggle, first with the problems of a tremulous peace, then with the robust job of arming the nation for global war.

The house and senate formally agreed to adjourn at the close of today's business, furnishing a breathing spell until the new congress takes over on Jan. 6.

Longest in history, the 77th congress was in session 715 days. The house met on 404 legislative days. Five senators and 11 representatives died during the two years.

It leaves a tempestuous record of pre-war battles over foreign policies, of sharp skirmishes between isolationists and interventionists; and then of sudden cohesion on war measures as bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

The shadows of war already

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Stepping up their aerial offensive against the Japs in the south Pacific, U. S. planes attacked enemy bases at Buin in the northern Solomons and for the sixth day rained bombs on the new Nipponese airfield on New Georgia island, the navy announced today. Significantly, the navy stated that no enemy resistance was encountered in either raid on the Jap bases.

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—The Allied air force in New Guinea concentrated today on wiping out Japanese reinforcements and supplies at the mouth of the Mambare river while, 45 miles to the southeast, Australian and American troops mopped up in the Buna area.

From the all-out nature of the air attack, it was evident that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United Nations commander in the South Pacific, did not intend to let the enemy establish any new foothold in New Guinea to prevent the rapidly approaching elimination of Japanes garrisons at the east end of the island.

It was clear also that he would allow the Japanese to set up no advance outpost to hamper the campaign which is expected to follow soon for capture of their bases at Salamaua and Lae.

(A United Press war correspondent at the front reported that it was estimated authoritatively that about 250 Japanese landee at the Mambare river mouth and probably an equal number was killed. Another attempt to land men at the Kumusi river, 12 miles north of Gona, apparently was

SCHOOL BUS HIT

21 Escape Injury In Mishap Near Lexington.

Twenty-one school bus passengers escaped injury yesterday afternoon when a bus was sideswiped by an automobile on U S Route 42, four miles southwest of Lexington, state highway patrolmen said today.

Lee L. Armstrong, 55, Lexington, driver of the school bus, told patrolmen that a car driven by Richard Rinebolt, 24, of Shelby, rammed into the left front fender and side of his bus. Rinebolt was driving toward the bus, Armstrong said. None of the persons involved was injured.

Lloyd Gaverick, Mt. Gilead R. D. 2, whose auto and another operated by Ralph R. Herrick, Pittsburgh, Pa., collided on Route 42 last evening was treated at General hospital for bruises and cuts. On being released he was taken to the Mt. Gilead jail awaiting trial today on an intoxication charge, patrolmen stated.

COLD, SNOW TO EASE HAZARDS

Freezing Mist Causes Auto Crashes; Moving Van Breaks Loose, Hits Car.

Colder weather and possible snow flurries tonight are expected to eliminate some of the skidding hazards of yesterday evening which brought four non-injury auto collision police reports before a "loose" snowfall covered the frozen "grease" which resulted from the afternoon's misty thaw.

Many pedestrians suffered falls or executed wierd gymnastics to prevent being grounded when rain and slush froze into a slippery filament on downtown sidewalks in the early hours of the evening.

When the brakes of a Mansfield Transfer and Storage company truck let loose the van broke from its moorings on North Franklin avenue, veered across the pavement and crashed into the auto of G. Miller, 111 North Franklin avenue. Ralph W Hammer was driver of the truck.

Collisions were reported between cars operated by D. P. Jameson, 100 Glenwood Heights, and Karl Goettle, 693 Maple street, A. M. Scheurer, 121 East Fourth street, and R. S. Osbun, truck driver, of 495 Woodward avenue, at East Fourth and Foster streets, Joseph Kleer, Mansfield R. D. 1 and Mose Haynes, North Diamond street, at East Sixth street and Franklin avenue.

Patrolman Richard Hecht reported that Kleer charged Haynes with driving into the moving traffic at the intersection his auto skidding against the Kleer car when brakes were applied.

Reports Story of Dramatic Yankee Message 'Buna Busted'

(Editor's Note: The following dispatch describing the storming and capture of Buna, important Japanese base in New Guinea, by American troops, was written by the only newspaper reporter who was there. United Press war correspondent Frank Hewlett makes a picture of being in the midst of the fighting.)

By FRANK HEWLETT
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT BUNA (Delayed) Eager young American soldiers, bayonets glistening in early morning sunlight, stormed and captured Buna village, a key Japanese base, today in the first all-American show of the New Guinea campaign.

The attack was opened at 7 a. m. with an artillery and mortar barrage only 100 yards ahead of the advancing infantrymen.

Its climax came at 9 a. m., when the colonel in command received this succinct message from the unit commander which stormed the village: "Buna Busted."

In face of direct enemy fire which, surprisingly, caused only a small number of casualties, the Americans fought through pill boxes and machine gun nests to attack the main enemy force from two sides.

They joined in the village. The firing dwindled gradually until there were only spasmodic machine gun bursts and single rifle shots. The pall of smoke over the front lifted.

A few hours later the colonel had to tell his soldiers in the village to stop hunting souvenirs and start hunting Japanese stragglers and snipers in the surrounding country.

Now, at 8 p. m. some Yanks are wearing Japanese shirts and trousers. Others have Japanese leather belts and mess kits. Most popular are the rubber soled tabis, the Japanese canvas shoes with a special big toe section, designed for tree climbing.

The victory today was no push-over. It was possible only because it was well-planned and executed. Strategically it means that the Americans now hold a substantial beachhead at the river mouth, the best landing for boats in this area.

The victory came after three weeks of fighting in which both

Commission Ready To Give Bates New Leave.

Last night's proposed meeting of the city Civil Service commission was postponed until tonight when it was learned by commission members in the afternoon that they would be required to approve city payrolls tonight in order that checks due municipal employes on Dec. 31 can be given them Dec. 22 for Christmas shopping purposes.

Attorney George W. Biddle, commission president, in announcing the postponement, said today that the board has signified its willingness to "go along" with the Federal Bureau of Investigation by granting a new leave of one year to Meade K. Bates, Mansfield's police chief serving with the federal crime detection bureau.

The commission yesterday recommended that Bates return to his police duties for one hour on Jan 15 devoting the time to compiling a new application for leave which, when approved by Service-Safety Director Fred B Wolff, will have the approval of the commission.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A spokesman for the Ohio trucking interests said today they would oppose any move to lower the statutory maximum speed limit from 50 miles to 35 miles an hour.

Survivors of a medium-sized Belgian merchantman, broken in half and sunk when it was torpedoed in mid-Atlantic in September with the loss of one life, were safe in an east coast port today.

Many of the 51 survivors were blasted into the water when the torpedo struck amidships, and one man, a deck officer, was unconscious in the water for two hours before he was picked up, the survivors said. The survivors were rescued by a Canadian warship.

Sportsmen Protest Lowering Of Pleasant Hill Water Level

Representatives of sportsmen's clubs and outdoor organizations, meeting in Mansfield last night, voted to circulate petitions over a six-county area protesting lowering of the water level in Pleasant Hill lake in Richland and Ashland counties.

The protests will be submitted to Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th district, Gov. John W. Bricker and to Senators Harold Burton and Robert A. Taft.

Gordon Ensminger, chairman of the Richland County Fish and Game association, said the lake had virtually been drained by army engineers after "six or eight" Perrysville residents complained that water was leaking into their basements.

"It has not been proved that the lake was responsible for the water in the Perrysville basements, but if it is, we believe the benefits derived from the lake more than balance the property loss there," Ensminger said.

Ensminger added that lowering of the lake level had killed thousands of fish, ruined sports activities on the lake, and threatened the water level in the Mansfield area.

A committee headed by A. A. Miller, Mansfield, will prepare the petitions and seek 80,000 signatures in Richland, Ashland, Crawford, Wayne, Knox, and Morrow counties.

City, County to Be Honored For War Bond Sales Success

Mansfield and Richland county war bond sale successes will be recognized at a community demonstration here Jan. 20 when a special Treasury department flag will be presented by H. F. Bredlow, the Treasury's Ohio war savings staff secretary, and other outstanding national and state leaders.

All firms which have achieved an employe payroll deduction of 10 per cent of gross payroll with a 90 per cent participation of employes will be privileged to participate in the ceremony, Paul Eliot, county war bond sales chairman, announced today. These 115 firms can acquire the "10 Per Cent Minute Man" flags through arrangement with Eliot.

The Minute Man flag day has been set for Jan. 21 following the presentations on the preceding day.

Outstanding achievement of Mansfield and Richland county in piling up a sale of $628,000 in bonds on Pearl Harbor day has attracted national attention.

Eliot reported today that more companies and organizations are joining the 10 per cent ranks daily and it is hoped that 250 flags will be presented at the Jan. 20 celebration. Plans are being formulated to make this another tremendous demonstration of the community's Axis-destroying attitude.

British Eighth Army Continues Driving Rommel Force Westward to Tripoli As Allies Smash Tunisian Coast With Mounting Air Attacks.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—The Allied pincers in North Africa clamped tighter on Axis troops today as the British Eighth army pushed more than 50 miles west of El Agheila.

(By United Press)

LONDON—German forces apparently have withdrawn from some of their advanced positions in northern Tunisia, the Morocco radio reported today as the British Eighth Army drove westward through Libya toward Tripoli and a junction with the Tunisian Allied army.

British planes based on Malta joined in a big scale attack on shipping along the east coast of Tunisia where the Axis was desperately pouring in reinforcements for its last ditch stand on the African continent.

Radio Morocco said the Allied patrols in the Tunis-Bizerte corner of northeast Tunisia, moving out to feel the strength of enemy dispositions, had found no trace of Axis troops at points where they had previously been reported around Medjez-el-bab, 30 miles southwest of Tunis.

The Allied positions along the battle line were firmly held, it was reported.

The Morocco radio reported that in their constant attacks on shipping and supply centers Allied planes had sunk five merchantmen, including three at Tunis, one at Bizerte and one off Sicily, in addition to doing great damage to land targets.

Constantly intensified Allied aerial activity in the Tunisian zone gave rise to hope here that the Allies had neared the point of tactical superiority over the Axis and that a decisive attack might be possible when the road dried enough for tank movement.

It was hoped here that Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied commander-in-chief, might start his big attack before the Germans and Italians retreating through Libya could reach Tunis, apparently their objective.

Spanish dispatches from Algiers reported that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had arrived in Tripoli to organize the Axis stand.

Rommel's battered Afrika Korps was already more than 40 miles west of El Agheila in Tripolitania, fleeing westward under a terrific Allied plane attack.

In northeast Tunisia, a blazing sun was fast drying the mud so

Drive Armored Wedge Into Red Positions Southwest of Stalingrad.

MOSCOW—(AP)—German units slashing hard at the left wing of the Red army southwest of Stalingrad, were reported today to have driven an armored wedge into the Russian lines after mounting full scale attacks bolstered by tanks and planes.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said the Germans struck heavily and repeatedly at positions occupied only recently by the Russians who had not had time to consolidate them.

The Axis attacks were described as evidently the strongest they have been able to muster since the beginning of the Russians' winter offensive Nov. 19 but the dispatch declared there was still no sign that they had succeeded in shattering the encircling ring in which they were caught before Stalingrad.

Death Toll Uncertain as Bus Plunges Into River.

GLOUCESTER POINT, Va.—(AP)—A bus loaded with workmen plunged into the York river today from the water end of a Gloucester-Yorktown ferry. Twenty-five occupants of the bus were rescued, but it was not learned immediately whether there was any loss of life.

State police said a preliminary report indicated there was at least one fatality.

C. D. Burke, assistant manager of the Gloucester-Yorktown Ferry company said it had not been determined how many persons were aboard the light contractor's bus, which was en route to the navy mine depot near Yorktown.

The bus toppled into about 15 feet of water as the ferry was pulling out of the slip about 7.25 a. m.

Draft Boards to Enlist for Navy, Marines, Guards

Enlistments in the navy, marine corps, and coast guard, as well as the army, which were banned by recent presidential order, will continue as "voluntary inductions" under selective service, local boards were informed today.

Men between the ages of 18 and 38 desiring service in these branches have until Feb. 1 to make application with their boards. Forms for "voluntary induction" which must be prepared will be available at the boards until this date when procedure will be established under the War Manpower board so that calls may be levied for all branches of the armed forces.

YOU MUST GET PREPARED

A lead-throwing end-play is a pure waste of effort unless you first go through the necessary elimination or strip process to remove from your own holdings, or those of the opponents, the cards which would enable them to make an innocuous return. In the case of a No Trump contract, you must get out of their hands all suits except the one or two which will compel them to build you an extra winner by leading. In suit play, you need only eliminate them from your hands, while leaving a trump in each of your holdings so that, if the enemy does not lead into a tenace he will have to give you a ruff and discard.

South should have made this contract, but failed to make one simple vital play. He won the second club lead by ruffing, took two rounds of hearts and three of top spades discarding one diamond, then finessed the diamond 10 to the Q. West had no problem for a return, shooting back the spade J, which South ruffed. After a high heart to get into dummy, he finessed the diamond J and lost to the K, going down one.

What a cinch this contract was if, after the third high spade, South had merely ruffed out the dummy's last spade, re-entered dummy with a high heart and then finessed the diamond 10. West would have won with the Q, but would have had no safe return to make. A spade or club would get ruffed in the dummy, the diamond J being thrown off, whereas a diamond return would have been away from the K into the A-J.

South's mere failure to take out dummy's fourth spade by ruffing, before he tried to finesse the diamonds, defeated him.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Dec. 17.

A most delightful and progressive day is forecast from the predominant lunar aspects, with such conditions accented by the mutual transits. Business and public affairs are highly stimulated, and brought to successful culminations by those in power and influence. At the same time the major interests may be centered on social, domestic and cultural affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a pleasant and progressive year with the most cherished interests centered upon public, group or fraternal affairs. Uppermost, however, will be social, cultural and domestic matters, with romance and heart interests and objectives to the fore. Nevertheless this gratifying situation may be complicated by subtleties, duplicities and extravagance or excess.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky once told me half admiringly, half reproachfully, that I was far too forgiving for my own good, and I now found it impossible any longer to hold resentment against Olina, after she put her tremulous, hopeful question about Georges.

After all, while she had shown catty shrewdness and malevolent predatory action against one on whom she sought revenge, she was like a child in many ways, and I had no wish to hurt a child.

But I could not shut out the memory of Georges' voice as he demanded of me: "Is Mary happy?" or of the look on his face when he grasped Mary's hands and asked her the same question, coupled with a demand that she tell him why she permitted her leading man, Stephen Redfield, to accompany her to a public place.

Madge Agrees.

I could only hope Georges would be more discreet when he again saw Mary with her husband and "in-laws," but there was now only one answer to give to Olina's question.

"My dear child," I said, "of course the letter means he is thinking of you."

I knew this was the truth, for Georges, both in that letter and in his interview with me, had shown his intense interest in the welfare of Olina and her mother, and an alertness to their danger.

"You would know," she said with a sigh of relief, and such child-like trust in her voice that I felt guilty. "I wonder when your father will put in the personal ad Georges in that letter asked me to use."

I now realized that I could no longer put off telling her of Georges' presence in the hotel. I wanted to break the news to her gradually, but had to be abrupt, for a bell sounded and Olina said with a start:

"There come Mama and Papa Veritzen. That is his ring."

I caught at her dress as she started toward the door.

"Wait just a second," I said. "There is something I must tell you before you come in. Georges is in his hotel now, and my father wishes him to see all of you including Mary and Noel, tonight. But you already have seen him."

"Seen Georges?" she repeated, her hand at her throat. "I have seen no one who even remotely resembled him."

"He was that old man at the cafe, in what Mary called the 'Father Christmas' get-up." I said hurriedly. "Now pull yourself together, dear. I have told you this now so you shall not be too surprised when I repeat it to your mother and stepfather and you as soon as they come in. Remember, I have told you nothing; you must register surprise!"

"I can do that," she said, "and thank you for preparing me. Now I must go, for Marie will have admitted them by this time."

Veritzens Return.

When she swung the door open, I heard her mother's voice.

"Oh, there you are, dear! I wondered—"

"Yes, and someone else is here too," Olina said, "someone you will be very glad to see, I know. Come on into the library."

"Madge!" Olga said, clasping my hands and kissing me, in her pretty, foreign fashion, on both cheeks. "I am glad to see you!"

Philip Veritzen, close behind his regal wife, welcomed me in ceremonious fashion, then seated me, for I had risen to greet Olga.

"I really should not sit down," I said "for I am in great haste. I have come to deliver a message from my father, concerning the former King Georges of Trees."

"The former King Georges?" Olga repeated with paling face, while I anathematized my stupid phraseology. 'You mean that he is dead?"

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By
Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1912.)

CHAPTER XI

Rogers Holland was studying her now through narrowed eyes. A strange hint of a smile broadened his mouth.

"Take off your hat, will you?" he asked. "Thank you. Wait just a minute."

He leaned over and rang a bell three times. Dina watched him in bewilderment. Neither spoke again until a middle-aged, trim, stout woman entered the room.

"Did you ring, Mr. Holland?" the newcomer asked.

"I did. Will you look at Miss Cashman, Mrs. Bucket? I want to ask you something."

The woman obeyed with a friendly smile. The smile in its own lenience seemed to ask Dina's indulgence too.

"How would she look in an evening dress with her hair done correctly?"

The woman smiled again toward Dina, after a dubious look at her employer, and said in a faintly reproachful and faintly amused tone:

"She'd look very lovely, with that hair and her eyes being so blue. Is she your cousin Mary's daughter, Mr. Holland?"

"No; no relation," he answered briefly. And then, in a business-like tone: "Do you think you could take her into San Francisco tomorrow and buy her that sort of a dress?"

"Why, certainly," the woman said after a keen glance at him to see if he was joking.

"I'd like," he said, "to introduce her to Mrs. Pollock—to Mrs. Havens, rather, on Thursday night."

A great light came into Mrs. Bucket's eyes and a certain grim, satisfied tightening to her mouth.

"I see, sir," she said.

"You'd do that, wouldn't you?" Rogers said to Dina with his characteristic grin.

"Do what?" Dina asked, looking from one to the other.

"Come to my dinner party on Thursday night," he told her. "Be dressed, be quiet, be a mystery to them all. Steal her thunder. I'll introduce you—what did you say your first name is?"

"Dina, Geraldine," she said.

"Geraldine; ah, that's better! Miss Geraldine Cashman, a friend of mine. Look," Rogers said persuasively, in the pleasantest and most sympathetic manner she had yet seen him use. "I'm doing something for you. You'll do this for me?"

"But—but I couldn't talk to those people!" Dina protested.

"You wouldn't have to talk. None of them's ever seen you. None of them knows a thing about you. All you have to do when anyone speaks to you is either say 'yes' or 'no' or look over at me and smile. I'll do the talking. I'll send the car for you, and Mrs. Bucket here will go home with you, won't you, Mrs. Bucket, when the party is over?"

"I couldn't dress at my house," Dina further objected. "We haven't even a bathroom."

"You can dress here."

"If you think I could do it."

"There would be nothing to do. You would be simply one more guest at my dinner, and when Hall drives you home I hand you a check for—well, whatever we decide. Thanks, Mrs. Bucket." Rogers said with a careless nod. He picked up his magnifying glass, studied a stamp attentively.

"There's only one thing I'd want you to do, Geraldine," he went on when they were alone, "and that's to get Mrs. Pollock—Mrs. Havens she is now—wondering about you. That's all. I want her to ask herself, 'Who's this girl Rogers seems to know so well?' Just be easy, just refer anything that stumps you to me.

"She's thirty-four, Aline is, and she's jealous as the devil. She's always wanted to know everything, wanted to be first. And by the way, you mustn't mention Vere. You're my friend that night."

"I'll not mention Vere," Dina agreed somberly.

"Meanwhile I'll write Caroline—Vere's mother. I'll stir her up a little, see what's going on. It won't accomplish anything, though."

"And you think," she said anxiously, "that I might go on to New Haven and see him? You think that's what I ought to do?"

* * *

He looked thoughtful for a moment, picked up a stamp with a delicate tweezer tip. His tone was unconcerted.

"That, of course, you'd have to decide."

"A month ago," Dina protested, against a rising sensation of despair, "I'd have said he'd be glad to have come on. I'd have known that he cared the way I do! But now it's all so queer. We did talk of getting married—always that was the way we talked; in the beginning it was sort of understood. And especially that Sunday driving down from Paradise Valley.

"But now—since Christmas it's all been different. I've felt so sick all the time, as if I couldn't write him and laugh about things. And his letters"—Dina faltered, her eyes filling with tears—"his letters aren't the same!"

A silence. The man glanced at her with bulging eyes busied himself again with his stamps.

"I can't help you out, I'm afraid," he said dryly.

Yawning gulfs of desolation seemed to be opening about Dina.

"Do you know his address at college, Mr. Holland?"

His surprised look seemed to disclaim all responsibility.

"No; haven't the faintest idea. I'm sorry Vere hasn't played a little bit handsomer part, but I've not ever been very close to him, although I've always liked the boy well enough. He's always seemed to me a decent young feller. Just how he'd act at a time like this I am sure that I couldn't say. His mother," he added with his eyes again narrowed and his smile grim, "is a splendid example of the queen cobra. I was an usher at my brother's wedding 25 years ago; I was 16. I met her that day and I hated her at first sight. I knew then that she'd wreck Van's life, and she's done her best. She sees me now and then—knows the boy will come in for whatever I leave, in all probability—and that's why she did her best to break off my affair with Mrs. Havens. That doesn't interest you, of course."

"It does," Dina said politely.

"Aline and Caroline are great friends, and Caroline worked up this Havens match. She probably dictated the note Aline wrote me."

"But why should she break it off, since it was with her best friend?" Dina demanded, wide-eyed.

"Because of precious young Vere's coming in for my money," the man answered almost impatiently. "Because she hates me."

"Oh." Dina felt her spirits sinking. The futility of traveling three thousand miles to see Vere came over her like a cold wave.

And yet, to see him again, to hear his laugh again, to feel his hand covering hers—ah, that would be to live once more! There was no other way. Dina got to her feet. "You arrange with Mrs. Bucket about going into town," he said. "And remember, if you get stuck, just smile as if you knew all about everything and look at me. Good-bye Geraldine."

"It's good of him," she was entranced, staring at a photograph of Vere that was on a table.

"You may have that if you like," the man said. "I've others."

"No; no, thank you," Dina said. "I'd rather he gave me one himself."

"You'd rather what?"

Her head was high. She faced the man, half turning, her cheeks blazing.

"He's never given me one," she said.

"All right, Geraldine," Rogers Holland said. "I think you and I are going to understand each other."

Ten minutes later she was out in the sharp winter cold, walking toward the bus.

"I am doing something," she said half aloud. "I am doing something. Perhaps if you do something it changes things. Perhaps there will be a letter from Vere at the store!"

"Letter there for you," Frances Tack said when Dina was back at the desk in the grocery. Dina's heart leaped. She took it with hands that trembled.

It was a short letter, scribbled in ink on one side of a thick square page. Dina read it twice. Then she put it back in the envelope and put the envelope in the breast pocket of her sweater. A moment later she was back at work.

"You look queer, Dina," said Frances, slamming cans and packages into a tall brown paper bag. "Headache?"

"No, I'm all right," Dina answered. She cleared her throat, for the first effort at speech was unintelligible. "I'm all right," she repeated.

Rogers driver, Hall, met Dina at the Bonita Station, or rather at the open weather-beaten shed that did duty as a station, just a week later.

The car rushed smoothly up the wide highway, turned at the bridge crossing, moved steadily westward on the rise of the hills, and took the road that climbed through Belmont.

The old Holland place stood in forty wooded acres and had a deep canyon to itself. It had been built in days of the pioneers, gold-rush, railroad-fortune days; it had been somewhat modernized in the nineties. But it was still a pretentious, gloomy, clumsy old building.

Tonight it wore an aspect as cheerful as gushing lights and a wide-opened door could lend it. The Hollands had once been famous for hospitality, and although that day was long dead, something of its glory was on this occasion restored.

The dress, the slippers had arrived. Everything that she and Mrs. Bucket had bought, in a bewildering afternoon of shopping the previous Friday, was there. Her costume was complete, even to a new stay. Dina was left alone to enjoy a bath, to get into her undergarments unobserved. The housekeeper returned to help her with the final touches.

The slippers were silver; there was a band of tiny silver roses for her hair. The dress was of heavy white satin, printed with large splashy flower clusters, and at her waist was a cluster of more silver roses from which hung delicate silver ribbons.

Dina had never seen such a gown before; the saleswoman had indeed assured them that there was no other like it anywhere. The girl stood looking at herself in the mirror like one dazed.

Under the little crown of roses her soft burnished hair rippled and curved in waves. Her face was pale but alight with excitement.

The gown was short-waisted; a quaint tightness forced up the young breasts so that a suggestion of cleft showed between them; the narrowness of hips and waistline made the spreading skirts seem all the more flower-like.

Dina's eyes were blazing. Upon the advice of the saleswoman she had used only a pale lip red; her mouth looked soft and young, and when she smiled at her reflection the smile was sad rather than gay.

"My goodness, you look like another girl!" Mrs. Bucket said in honest admiration.

"Fine feathers," Dina said slowly.

THEATERS

Held Over.

Held over through Friday the musical extravaganza, "Springtime in the Rockies," showing at the Ohio, presents Carmen Miranda, Betty Grable, John Payne, Cesar Romero and Harry James and His Music Makers in a song and dance story filmed against the background of Lake Louise. Payne and Miss Grable portray a song and dance partners who come to a parting of the ways when the girl tires of Payne's flirtations. Payne's efforts to win her back provide fun during the second half of the picture.

War Comedy.

"Friendly Enemies," one of the biggest stage hits during World war I, opens at the Madison today with Charles Winninger and Charles Ruggles in the principal roles. Blending laughter and tears the story deals with two first-generation German-Americans with Winninger in the role of a Germanophile and Ruggles portraying the man who tries to cure Winninger of his divided allegiance. The sets built for the picture will take audiences back to the stirring days of 1917, one of them showing an embarkation scene as the A. E. F. left for France. Nancy Kelly and James Craig play the romantic leads. Linda Darnell and John Sheppard in "The Loves of Edgar Allan Poe."

First Run.

"Thru Different Eyes," a first run murder mystery, opens at the Ritz today. Mary Howard is featured in the leading role. "United We Stand," is the second production.

Mystery Comedy.

A pair of honeymooners who find their hotel room has become the focal point for a constantly changing gang war furnish the fun in "One Thrilling Night," the Park attraction with Joan Beal and Wanda McKay in the leading roles. Beal plays a draftee and Miss McKay, his bride. Warren Hymer and J. Farrell MacDonald are in the cast. "Invisible Agent," with Ilona Massey, John Hall, Peter Lorre and John Litel is the second feature.

The value of munitions made in Canada last year was greater than that of the total produced during the last war.

Marine Rides Out Air Crash Fatal to 17

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Mr. Bower Charleton Tufts III walked into a Hollywood studio and said he'd like a job of acting. Today he's got one: all he does is play opposite Paulette Goddard, with a couple of girls named Claudette Colbert and Veronica Lake in the same picture.

This quickest of success stories is only in part a reflection of the shortage of leading men. Mr. Tufts III is a massive, husky blond gentleman of a type whose friends are always saying he should be in pictures. Descendant of the Tufts college Tufts, he lived in Boston, went to Yale where he played football, rowed for the crew, and played and sang in college bands. Bands—at one time he was managing five of them at Yale—became his post-collegiate career, and it was when he was singing with a New York one that he kept hearing about pictures

"It was the funniest thing," he says of his movie venture "They just signed me. I thought you had to have a high-powered agent with a sales talk. I thought they'd demand some tests None of that. They just put me in the picture.

IT'S funny to Sonny Tufts (which is how he'll be billed) but not so funny to the casting directors. A good-looking gent who's 6 feet 4, personable and he-mannish, doesn't walk in every day. If he's 3-A besides (Sonny is married) he's a godsend. They needed another leading man, for Claudette, and to get George Reeves they had to raid Harry "Pop" Sherman's Hopalong Cassidy outfit. It's a break for Reeves, who had been under contract to studios before but never managed to emerge from the "B's."

The picture is "So Proudly We Hail." story of army nurses on Bataan It had its origin last spring during the Victory Caravan, when Mark Sandrich and Allan Scott, the writer, were reading of the heroic exploits of the American defenders. "I've got to do a picture on those women," said Sandrich, and he and Scott began work on the train. Their fervent hope that at least some of the nurses would escape, to give first-hand accounts, was realized. One of the heroines, Lieut. Eunice Hatchitt, is here technical-advising along with Col. Thomas W. Doyle, who escaped in a submarine.

TO TAKE her role, Claudette had to waive her contractual right to solo star billing, inasmuch as Paulette and Veronica are co-stars, with equally important roles. It wasn't too much of a sacrifice, however, as Scott's script is the subject of much enthusiasm. "It shows things as they really were," as Lieutenant Hatchitt declares.

For three glamour gals, it's an unusual assignment. There wasn't any glamour on Bataan, and the wardrobes will consist of uniforms, supplanted in the later sequences by men's coveralls.

SEES SOLDIER BURIED DURING AGHEILA ATTACK

Correspondent Describes Grim Ritual Accorded Youth By Fighting Pals.

By GEORGE LAIT

OUTSIDE EL AGHEILA, Libya—(Delayed)—(INS)—We buried a young soldier at dawn today in a brief but most impressive ceremony before resuming our pursuit of the retreating Axis forces.

I saw him killed just as day broke as we cautiously advanced into the outskirts of El Agheila which the Nazis left during the night.

The young lad who died stepped on a concealed trip wire which exploded a "booby trap," and he was killed instantly Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has left the whole countryside thoroughly covered with su . devilish devices.

The youngster dropped face down in the sand his bayonetted rifle still clutched in the death grip I was 10 feet away but he was dead before I reached his side

With tiny entrenching tools his pals dug a shallow grave while one of them crept to the rear through the heavy morning mist to summon a chaplain.

While digging the shallow ditch which will be the final resting place of this young soldier we dug up a German teller mine dud which did not go off.

By the time the grave was ready the chaplain had arrived—a padre from World War I. Overhead our fighter planes, invisible due to mist, roared as they swept out to strafe the enemy retreating along the Via Balbai coastal road named after the late Marshal Italo Balbo.

In this frontline we carried the youngster's body into the grave, covered his face and placed his regimental cap badge in his hands.

The soldiers picked up their rifles—and I noticed a couple of them surreptitiously wiped tears from their eyes—and crept off into the mist after the enemy.

CLEARS RULING

Ration Clerk Tire Exams Must Be Made By Dec. 31.

To clarify tire inspection confusion which has followed the advent of gasoline and tire rationing in Mansfield and Richland county, Nelson Neff, chief clerk of the county war price and rationing board announced today that the first inspection period began Dec 1 and will close Jan. 31 for all passenger cars.

Commercial vehicles will obtain inspections by Dec. 31 or whenever tires have been run 5,000 miles. Passenger car owners will present the bottom part of their A book application blank to the inspector while commercial vehicle drivers will present their ODT certificates for inspection record notation.

Inspectors can obtain tire application forms at the ration board office to certify when new tires or recaps are necessary.

Chairman W. J Spreng advised filling station workers today that "S" coupons are void but that other coupons from eastern state car owners are valid though there is a slight difference in wording and color

PAPERS FORCED TO RAISE RATES

Survey Shows More Than Half of Publications Act To Meet Rising Costs.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Rising costs have caused more than half the daily newspapers in the United States to raise at least some portion of their circulation rate structures since the start of the war in 1939, Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Publishers association, said today.

The ANPA is conducting a survey of daily newspapers on circulation rate changes in 1942, and while still far from complete, returns thus far show 618 papers have announced advances.

Earlier this year—before many of the increases were made—a survey to which 1,777 newspapers replied showed the largest number, 806, were receiving 5 cents per single copy at retail A year earlier 794 out of 2,821 replies, were receiving 5 cents. The next largest group was the 3-cent bracket, at 735, against 751 a year previously. Only 185 reported 2 cents, against 231 the previous year.

These increases replies explained, reflected rising costs in wartime. At the same time, the survey showed that while immediate response to price increases was in most cases reduced circulation for a short time, such losses were soon recouped, and that circulation generally was now at record levels.

Among the higher cost items noted by publishers was that of motor route delivery with rationing of gasoline and tires adding to the problem. Increased delivery costs were common during the year.

YOUTHS NUMBER OVER 2 MILLION

Census Bureau Reports Total Subject To Draft.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The census bureau estimated today there are 2,479,000 18 and 19-year-old youths in the country subject to military service under recent draft legislation. Of this number about 2,210,000 are white and 269,000 nonwhite.

Many of these of course are physically unfit or already have enlisted

Because of a declining birth rate in the past, the bureau said the number of males attaining the age of 18 each year in the next few years would be less than this year's total. However, the bureau said in another report, the birthrate is on the increase now.

DEATH FOLLOWS

Mrs. Anna Anderson Was Cousin Of Mansfield Minister.

ASHLAND—Mrs. Anna Anderson, 85, widow of David N. Anderson, died this morning at her home, Ashland, R. D. 2, after an illness of several months.

Close survivors are two sisters, the Misses Elizabeth and Alice Ralston, at home.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the late residence by Rev. H. E. Andrews, pastor of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. J. Campbell White, cousin of Mrs. Anderson, who is pastor at the United Presbyterian church in Mansfield. Burial will be in Bellville cemetery.

WILL DEFEND SELF ON CHARGE OF EVADING SELECTIVE SERVICE

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Wilbur Shultz, 60, Richwood tailor charged with failing to register for selective service and assaulting a federal officer with a gun, plans to present his own defense when he goes on trial Jan. 5

Shultz pleaded innocent yesterday and refused U S Judge Mell G. Underwood's offer to appoint counsel, asserting he would defend himself.

Shultz is accused of firing three shots at U. S. Deputy Marshal Veley Main when the officer sought to arrest him last Sept. 29 on the selective service charge.

Others pleading innocent and charges against them included.

John Elmo White, 22, Cardington, failure to report for physical examination; Walter S. Warman, 31, Newark, and Don Harold Barnett, 24, Zanesville, failure to report for induction, and Gaylord F. Burt, Mt. Gilead, failure to report to a camp for conscientious objectors. All are listed as members of Jehovah's Witnesses and objected to military service on religious grounds.

Cases of three men who pleaded guilty were referred to the court probation officer. The men and charges against them

Ben K Keeton, Chillicothe, unlawfully wearing a military uniform; Charles Fray, 60, and Joseph Stefanello, 38, of Steubenville, violating the white slave act.

Orville Knight, 26, of Crooksville, Perry county, pleaded guilty to violating a white slave act in transporting a 13-year-old girl from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va., and was sentenced to five years.

Up and Down the Street

An irate mother who took school affairs into her own hands to the extent of slapping a teacher in the city schools was penitent and wiser today. Brought into court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her child, she was given a 30-day sentence in jail, which was later suspended because she is the sole support of the child in the case and other younger children as well. The apologetic mother explained that she intended to rectify the teacher's discrimination against her 11-year-old son. A judicial lecture accompanied the sentence.

Cold hungry and penniless two girl fugitives from the Bureau of Juvenile Research, Columbus, were taken into custody by Patrolman William Colby at the Parkway restaurant at 1 a. m today. Police were notified by a waitress when the girls, 16 and 14 years old, told her they were 18 years old and were in search of work. One of the runaways said her home is in Warren while the other had been under observation at the state institution from Youngstown. The girls were sheltered at the Salvation Army citadel until being turned over to Juvenile Officer Ralph Carroll and Judge Stuart H. Cramer this morning.

Patrolman Carl Beard is not the sprinter he used to be. Last midnight when he entered Library court from City Square he noticed a youth, apparently stationed near North Walnut street as a lookout, signal to a confederate tampering with a door of the Christ Marinis confectionary, 29 North Walnut street. When both youths fled, Beard gave chase but was outdistanced after covering three blocks. He afterward discovered a rear window of the store had been broken and the door unlocked but his arrival on the scene had frustrated the intended burglary.

The Richland county blind school will be feted at a Christmas party again this year by the Salvation Army. The affair will be held next Tuesday at the citadel beginning with a turkey dinner at noon and followed by a gift exchange around the Christmas tree. Turkeys for the dinner were provided through sales tax stamps collected by Jane Williams, Community Fund executive secretary.

DESCRIBES GROANING IN CRUSHED CABIN

One Other Survivor Fights For Life After Accident In Utah Desert.

(By Associated Press)

FAIRFIELD, Utah—A doughty 23-year-old leatherneck tightened his safety belt and rode out a Western Airlines transport crash that killed 17 and left a second survivor battling for his life today.

Lieut. A. F Gardner of Alexander, N. Y. and the U. S. marine corps, smiled through a scratched, bruised face from his hospital bed at Lehi as he said, "I nearly froze to death, but I'm lucky, to be here."

A J Mallett of Springfield, Ark., the only other person aboard to escape death when the big ship toppled into a stretch of sagebrush desert about 35 miles south of Salt Lake City yesterday, was much more seriously hurt than the marine

Four women including Stewardess Cleo Booth of Los Angeles, two military officers, eight other men passengers and three crew members, died in the crash, some of them lingeringly as Lieutenant Gardner told of "awful screaming and groaning" in the smashed cabin.

The pilot apparently was groping for the emergency landing field at Fairfield, four miles from the crash spot, as the ship was pointed northward. It had failed to report by radio after taking off for Los Angeles.

Two of the victims were W. O. Hart, 57, co-publisher of the Orange, Calif., Daily News, and Donald E. Cummins, 42, of Denver, head of the Industrial Hygiene department of the University of Colorado.

The women passengers were Mrs. Leona Rosell, Salt Lake City Mrs. Carolyn Weersing, Glendale, Calif., and Mrs. George SkyKlead, Las Vegas, Nev.

The others killed were Lieut. Thomas A. Baldwin of the U. S. navy, Kellogg, Iowa; Second Lieut. Hugh E McCare of the U. S. army air corps, believed to be from La Grange, Ill.; Pilot Edward J. Loeffler, Glendale, Calif.; Co-pilot C. Clifton Lee, Burbank, Calif.; Douglas Soule St. Petersburg, Fla., Co-pilot-Trainee; Knight Bennett, Glendale; Fred Lewis, Los Angeles, Guy Talbot, jr, Great Falls, Mont., Airlines traffic manager, J. R. Bratt, Salt Lake City; R. H. Hultman, Omaha and Richard W. James, Salt Lake City.

Crewmen Declare American Mines Sank Coolidge

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — While the navy department in Washington investigated loss of the liner President Coolidge in the South Pacific two months ago, four crew members added eyewitness accounts of the sinking today to support claims that the vessel was sent to the bottom by two American mines.

The four, Jack Barlow, 20, Rafael Cooper, 41, Jack Vanderboom, 26, and William Sheesley, 19, all of whom arrived in San Francisco yesterday, asserted that the converted luxury liner was sunk as she struck an American mine field at the entrance to a South Pacific harbor.

The Coolidge hit two mines within two minutes' time, they related. An effort was made to beach her and the captain did manage to run her bow on a reef.

But after hanging on the reef for a time, she slid off into deep water and went down by the stern.

HEAD RAILWAYS

Three Men Picked to Run Former Van Sweringen Properties.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The directors of three former Van Sweringen railroads made known today that new presidents have been chosen for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co, the Nickel Plate road and the Pere Marquette Co.

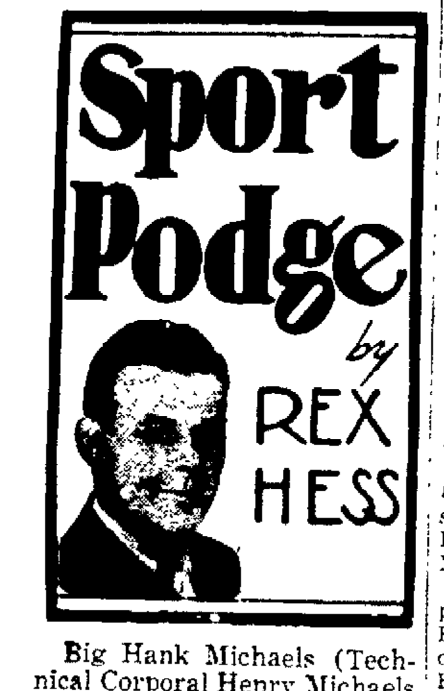
At a meeting held in the Terminal tower offices the directors chose Carl E. Newton president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., John W. Davin president of the Nickel Plate road, and Robert J Bowman president of the Pere Marquette Railway Co.

IT'S THE LIMIT

Farmer Protests He Can't Keep On Buying All That Sugar.

MARION, N. C — (AP) — A mountain farmer, reports the county rationing board, has about found a limit to his patriotism.

"I'm trying to do my bit, patriotic like," said the farmer, who had sworn that he and his family would abide by sugar rationing regulations, "but I'm married, have eight children and I'm derned if I can keep on a-buyin' all that sugar."



Big Hank Michaels (Technical Corporal Henry Michaels to you) goes back to Camp Edwards, Mass., tomorrow to take up his duties again in the hospital at the Massachusetts camp.

Now big Hank, who is sometimes called Henry and sometimes called Hen, and sometimes called Mike, must be feeling very well satisfied with himself and with this brief furlough with the boys back home.

It isn't every kegler who can do a hitch of nearly a year in the army, and come back to find his bowling eye and alley coordination as good as ever in tough competition, but that's what Hank found on his brief vacation.

* *

Just imagine yourself home on a short vacation from the army, putting on the old shoes and picking up the old ball for the first time in nearly a year, and charging out into such competition as the City "A" league, and hitting 244 the first game and winding up with a 644 total.

Huh, just imagine yourself hitting 244 and 644 anytime.

But that's the way Hank did it.

Pity the boys in hospital at Camp Edwards. Corporal Michaels will undoubtedly drop some hint of his bowling prowess.—

Here's more news from the service camps.

Comes word from down Alabama way that Lt Robert Spear has just earned his wings in the army air corps.

Bob, former News-Journal city tennis champion, got his wings in little less than 11 months. He was called to service on Jan. 18, and won his commission on Dec. 12.

Spear's Mansfield buddy, Fred Rader, got his wings the same day, to complete strangely parallel careers in learning to be fliers.

Spear and Rader, you'll remember, missed being in a disastrous bus wreck which took lives of several student fliers last summer, when they decided to make the trip on a camp transfer in Rader's car.

Rader got his wings as a pursuit ship pilot, Spear as pilot of multi-motored craft.

Both will have a chance to pick up more flying hours before they are called to active service.

* * *

Mansfield bowlers contributing to the Red Cross section of the Bowling Victory Legion last week, knew the money was to go to the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross, but they weren't particularly concerned with the use to which the money would be put.

The Red Cross, in announcing receipt of a check for $78 from the bowling leagues, said the money would be used for the blood bank expenses, which run as high as $5 per pint unit of blood donated here.

This is one time the keglers were "bowling for blood" and didn't know it.

Sinkwich Named Athlete of Year

NEW YORK—(AP)—All-America Frankie Sinkwich, who ran and passed Georgia's football team to the Southeastern conference championship and into the Rose Bowl, is the people's choice as the highest star among all the male athletes of 1942.

Fireball Frankie collected 91 points in the annual Associated Press poll of 69 sports editors, finishing far ahead of his closest rival, the slugging star of Boston's American baseball club, Ted Williams.

Sixteen athletes drew first-place votes in the wire-service balloting. Sinkwich was named first by [illegible] 15 of the voters, but he received 19 second and third-place votes to account for his top-heavy point total figured on the basis of three for first, two for second and one for third.

Last year's winner, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, was forgotten in the balloting this time. Sinkwich, a member of the marine corps reserve, got 12 votes in the 1941 poll.

OXFORD—(AP)—Miami university designated Leo Less, a junior tackle from Greenford, Mahoning county, as its most valuable football player of 1942.

BG Takes Sixth Cage Win In Row

Stage Rally In Closing Minutes For Victory.

(By International News Service)

BOWLING GREEN'S mighty basketeers chalked up their sixth straight win of the season last night, a 64 to 47 victory over Michigan Normal.

Until the final 11 minutes of play, it looked as though Coach Harold Anderson's boys might go down to their first defeat. Then Forward Wyndol Gray, the state's leading scorer, dropped in a field goal to knot the score at 35-all.

The next 10 minutes saw the Bowling Green cagers roll in 29 points. Gray led the scoring with 27 points and Don Otten, six-foot 11-inch B. G. center, used his height to his team's advantage by grabbing no less than 10 of his opponents' shots before they would reach the net.

Akron university served notice it could not be overlooked in the Ohio basketball picture. Displaying a strong offense the Zippers defeated Ohio Wesleyan 58 to 47, at Akron.

It was Akron's second win in four starts this season and the Bishops' second defeat in three contests. Center Chuck Allen and Jim Sankey, left guard, accounted for most of the Akron scoring. The first half margin, 28 to 15, proved the deciding factor as the Zippers got only 20 points in the second period to Wesleyan's 19.

Miami university won a 42 to 30 victory over Wilmington college at Oxford, as the Quakers faded in the second half. Miami held a 19 to 17 lead at the halftime.

Earl Fisher, Wittenberg ace, almost, but not quite, defeated Cincinnati university. He tossed in 10 field goals, most of them long ones, and four free throws for Wittenberg before the Cincinnati cagers checked him for the final 10 minutes and scored enough baskets to win a one-point victory, 49 to 48.

* * *

In the only other Ohio game, Hiram college recorded its first victory in two starts this season by downing a stubborn Ashland college five, 40 to 38. It was Ashland's third loss in four games.

Tonight's schedule takes Wooster to John Carroll; Marietta to Ohio university, Western Reserve to Syracuse; Grove City (Pa.) to Youngstown, and Tri-State (Ind.) to Toledo.

Hollingsworth Hits 621 Score

Starts Out With High Game of 246 Pins.

Hollingsworth hit a 621 total to pace the Mansfield Tire bowling league last night at Colony lanes, starting out with the league's high game of 246.

Eastman Stirs Up Baseball Argument

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The once hot then cold proposal to divide major league baseball into eastern and western divisions to save rail travel came to a lukewarm stage today with nobody apparently willing to forecast which way the temperature would go next.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, stirred up the fires a bit last night when he declared that "if the leagues want to adopt the plan it would fit in very nicely with what we are trying to do."

Most available league officials immediately doused the idea with the most frigid splash coming from Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston Red Sox.

"The idea doesn't appeal to us at all," observed Collins at Boston. "If it must come to that stage, baseball should call it a day."

Here's a Nice Dish---of Fish

Important thing about this picture, boys, is the fish. (Oh, yeah!) Ann Morley, apparently has what it takes to lure the fish out of the Hollywood Trout Lakes, for she has quite a catch of trout. The Trout Lakes are the answer to the gas-rationed sportsman's prayer.

Women Take Up Sport Slack With Men Away In Service

By GRANT DILLMAN

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Sports in Ohio are going to—the ladies.

The fair sex, it appeared today, is taking up where Johnny left off when he marched away to war.

A survey disclosed that the most spectacular increase has been in bowling where the influx of women almost has offset a sharp decrease in the number of male keglers whose ranks have been depleted by entrance into the armed services.

* * *

Mrs. Emma Thaler, secretary of the Women's International Bowling Congress representing 125,000 women, estimated that the number of women bowlers has increased 25 per cent since our entry into the war.

At Ohio State university, where more than half of 3,500 coeds are enrolled in physical education courses, popular demand has forced inauguration of special classes.

"For the first time since the last war," Miss Gladys Palmer, chairman of the woman's division of the physical education department, said, "Girls are asking for general physical conditioning courses.

"I suppose the combined influence of newspapers and the publicity given the importance of physical condition to our troops has impressed them with the importance of their own health."

Thousands of new women war workers, tied down to machines throughout the day, are turning to active sports, accounting for the great upsurge in women athletic activity, most observers agreed.

Another reason for the female invasion of the unorganized sports world was the lack of other diversions. Dances, for instance, are likely to continue predominantly feminine until Johnny comes marching home.

Rifle shooting among the Annie Oakley's has been lent impetus by the war. Possibly inspired by the role of Russian women in the war, hundreds of neophyte women nimrods are flocking to indoor rifle ranges.

Archery too has gained, but the increase is less noticeable because the dyed-in-the-wool archery sportswoman scorns the shorter indoor courses of the average recreation center. But the arrows are flying thicker and faster.

Although the basketball season still is in its infancy, recreation leaders expected a sharp increase in the number of women participants, particularly in industrial leagues.

Similar increases were noted in badminton, table tennis, volley ball and other sports.

The ladies aren't particular when they take their recreation. The wee hours of the morning more often than not find scores of second shift war workers, their faces still smudged from their machines, filling recreation centers.

As yet, no feminine invasion of the boxing world has been reported. But with the manpower situation what it is, anything can happen.

Old Men Keep Shooting Eye

Methodists Defeat Episcopal Quintet.

The "old men" from Central Methodist continue undefeated in the Y. M. C. A. church basketball league, taking the only close game in the league last night by tripping the Episcopalians 26-20.

* * *

Methodists led 4-2 at the quarter, trailed 7-8 at the half, but regained the lead at 16-15 in the third period. Charley Nail tied with Cave of the losers as high scorer with seven points.

St Luke's had some trouble beating Congregational 48-31, leading only 8-7 at the quarter and 18-15 at the half, before boosting the margin to 34-24 in the third period. Brandt led both teams with 13 points.

Grace Gospel trimmed St. Matthews 38-17 as Pfaff chalked up 20 points for the winners, and St. John's showed a good defense, as well as offense, in rolling to a 29-9 victory over Baptists. Flick Flockenzier led the scoring with eight points.

* * *

Tonight the City league swings into action again at the "Y" gym with Globe Steel meeting Athletic Supply at 7:30, and Westinghouse tangling with Yuncker Sports at 8:30. Another set of close games is expected, similar to last week's tilts in which Yuncker's and Globe edged to one-point victories.

Rodak Follows Ross to Marines

CHICAGO — (INS) — Chicago, which contributed Barney Ross, former lightweight and welterweight boxing champion, to the U. S. Marines, today gave another fighter, the veteran Leo Rodak, to the world-famous "Leathernecks."

Rodak, 29, a lightweight, said when he was sworn in that he wanted to get some "real action" against the Japs and hoped he would give as good an account of himself as Ross already has. Ross recently was cited for gallantry in action on Guadalcanal.

Rodak will leave Jan. 2 for the marine training base at San Diego, Cal.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Pro and con in the fight game: . . . The con man in this case is Sgt. James Owen Madden of the marines, who observes that there's a provincialism about New Yorkers and points to the stand of the state athletic commission about championships as an example. . . . "Why," he asks, "don't these three iron dukes join the union of states in American style and give the guys from the so-called 'sticks' a chance at the title, whether or not they happen to be Uncle Mike Jacobs' pigeons?" . . . On the "pro" side, Harry Markson, Jacobs' tub thumper, produces figures to show that over 600 different fighters have appeared on Madison Square Garden cards since Uncle Mike moved in there in 1937 and over 100 made their first appearances in 1942.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Wilbur Kinley, Jackson (Miss.) Daily News: "The usual wholesale firing of football coaches at this time of year is conspicuous by its absence. The war has made manpower so short that instead of the coaches having to sit up and say 'uncle' to keep their jobs after a shabby season, it is now the alumni who must sit up and say 'uncle' to keep their coaches, regardless of records."

SHORTS AND SHELLS.

Branch Rickey realy was interested in buying the Phils until he say the Brooklyn contract, which, we hear, calls for $25,000 plus 15 per cent of the profits. . . . During Larry MacPhail's free-handed regime those profits averaged 100 G's a year. . . . The National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress has listed a national tournament in Australia next year and has appointed a commissioner to supervise it. Now how about getting the winner back to play here?

SERVICE DEPT.

Soon after Lieut. Cmdr. Thomas Klakring, the sub commander who watched horse races in Japan through a periscope, got back from that eventful cruise, he went out to Bay Meadows to watch horse races . . . When Ed Frutig, former Green Bay Packer end, made his first flight a few years ago, he became airsick and said, "Never again." Now he's an instructor at a naval air base near Detroit.

BARONS AND LIONS BATTLE TO TIE

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The Washington Lions, third place club in the eastern division of the American Hockey league, battled to a 1-1 tie with the Cleveland Barons in the only game scheduled Tuesday night.

Ferd Gauthier put Washington in front in the second period with a goal at 18:10 but John Giroux tied it for Cleveland in the third with an unassisted goal at 8:20.

Butler Plays Heavy Sked

Beats Bellville While Rams Lose at Crestline.

Butler high school's Bulldogs are treating themselves to a big week of basketball. Last night they romped over Bellville in a non-league game at Butler 28-12, tomorrow night they go to Madison for another non-league game, and Friday night they meet Shiloh at Butler in a county loop tilt.

* * *

Madison also got in some non-league competition last night, losing their first verdict of the season as the Rams were edged at Crestline 28-26.

The Rams were far from warm in the shooting department, getting only three buckets out of 32 shots in the first half, and six out of 29 in the second half for a total of 9 out of 61.

Still they tied at 5-5 for the first quarter, took a 10-7 lead at the half, and trailed only 17-19 at the third quarter. Crestline sank four consecutive long shots in the third period to gain the lead.

Butler had little difficulty with Bellville, leading 6-4 at the quarter and 18-8 at the half.

* * *

Mansfield reserves will play the preliminary at Madison tomorrow night, at 7 o'clock.

Whirly Named Horse of Year

Hangs On To Honor For Second Season In Row.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ending an argument that has been bouncing around racing circles for months, Whirlaway today was named the "best horse of this year" by a one-sided vote of turf writers representing all parts of the country.

A total of 128 writers balloted in the Turf and Sport Digest's annual poll of the top gallopers in all divisions, and 76 of them picked Little Mr. Big Tail to hang onto the honor for the second straight season. Only 45 voted for Al Sabath's Alsab, who had been expected to give Whirly a much closer fight.

The writers picked Alsab over Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out as 1942's three-year-old Boss, and Mrs. John D. Hertz's rapid-running Count Fleet, advance favorite for next spring's Kentucky derby, as the best of the two-year-old colts, by a comparatively close margin over John Marsch's Mid-West, ace, Occupation.

Hal Price Headley's Askmenow, top money-winner of the year in her division, with a total of $39,610, was tabbed queen of the two-year-old fillies, and, of course, Whirlaway was a cake-walk in the balloting for the champion handicap campaigner in the four-year-old-and-up set.

SOME LEADERS SHOW SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

Irregularity Marks Trading In Stock List; New Peak In Power Reached.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks moved over an irregular course in today's early dealings.

Fractionally improved at a moderately active opening were Montgomery Ward, Woolworth and Union Carbide. American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Western Union and Glenn Martin were a shade lower. Westinghouse was off a point on the initial transfer.

Holders of the electric utility shares derived some comfort from the Edison Electric Institute's report showing energy distribution at a new record peak for the week ended Dec 12.

The sendout for the period 3-937,524,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 3,883,534,000 in the previous week and 3,475,919,000 for the same time last year.

TIRED CONGRESS ADJOURNS TODAY

Longest Session In History Sees Passage of War and Giant Tax Bills.

were stretching eastward from Asia westward from Europe when the present congress first convened in January, 1941. And, as they lengthened, there was fashioned for the nation one of the greatest military programs in all history

Unstintingly, the lawmakers opened wide the country's pursestrings to provide funds for a war machine All in all, approximately $205,000,000,000 was appropriated during the two years, and of that total $192,000,000,000 was earmarked for war

By contrast, about $16,000,000,000 was appropriated in 1917-18 for the first World war.

To help pay the bills, new taxes were piled on both business and private citizens. In 1941, congress found $3,553,000,000 in new revenue, and this year probed even deeper to find an additional $6,881,000,000. Millions of new taxpayers were called upon to contribute to the cost of war as exemptions dropped.

Even the step-up of defense legislation seemed slow after congress declared war in succession on Japan, Germany, Italy, Rumania, Bulgary and Hungary, and then threw the legislative machinery into high gear.

In the face of the dictators' challenge that democracy is outmoded, congress provided for a two-ocean navy, an army designed to reach a strength of 7,500,000 men and an air force intended to achieve mastery of the sky

The administration had its setbacks, as well as its victories, in the past two years. Chief among the former were its attempts to wipe out state taxation of federal war purchases, its move to supplement state unemployment compensation with federal grants — one which opponents decried as an attempt at federal control—and President Roosevelt's request for discretionary authority to suspend tariff and immigration laws when necessary to speed the war effort.

Man, Who Threw Mustard, Utility End Their Fued

CHICAGO —(INS)— The entente cordiale was restored today between 83-year-old Herman Klix and the Chicago Street Car company The feud was over

Herman is the white-bearded little old fellow who smashed a jar of mustard, a pound of cheese and a pound of butter through a street car window when the motorman refused to back the car off a crosswalk and let Herman pass.

For that Herman was brought into court on a disorderly conduct charge The aged man's belligerence had subsided somewhat as he admitted with a grin

"Maybe I was -ah—a little too impetuous"

Judge Mason Sullivan fined him $1 but entered no commitment order which in effect suspended the fine

And street car company officials just to show they were good sports said they would replace the food items Herman had used as missiles Everybody shook hands all around

WLB CONCLUDES CONTROVERSY

Decides It Has No Authority Over City Employes.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The war labor board today had ended a major controversy over the extent of its powers by deciding unanimously that it has no right to intervene in disputes between states and cities and their employes.

The decision came in a resolution which specifically rejected union demands that the board take jurisdiction in controversies involving New York transportation workers and city employes of Newark, N. J., and Omaha, Neb.

Officials of several other cities were interested in the ruling and appeared at public hearings to argue that federal intervention in state and municipal labor disputes violated states rights and city charters.

BOMBER FALLS

7 Army Men Killed as Craft Grazes Barn Near St. Louis.

ST LOUIS — (AP) — An army bomber carried seven men to their deaths as it crashed and burned last night a few minutes after taking off from Lambert-St Louis airport Two others escaped.

The plane grazed the roof of a barn before it nosed to the ground, burst into flames and set fire to the farm house of Mr. and Mrs Reginald Crouse.

LEAVE FOR ARMY

2 Groups Depart Tomorrow and Friday By Train.

Brief send-off ceremonies for two groups of army reservists from Mansfield Boards 1 and 2 will be held at the Erie station shortly after noon Thursday and Friday.

Approximately 20 men will leave from Board 2 Thursday and about the same number from Board 1 the following day.

There will be no ceremonies in the downtown area and the men will not be asked to march to the station, said Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland Victory Civic committee.

There will be programs at the railroad station, beginning about 12 10 p m both days, he said The men will leave at 12 37 p. m for Fort Hayes Columbus. No band has been scheduled

DEAF

IS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL

XMAS GIFT

ORTHO-TRONIC WILL ALWAYS BE A REAL FRIEND IN NEED

Grandmothers, slightly and severely deafened, enjoy sermons, radio, movies and are once again in the family circle.

NO NEED NOW TO BE

Ortho-tronic

VACUUM TUBE AUDIPHONE

MADE BY MAKERS OF BELL TELEPHONES

Poor Eyesight Requires Eyeglasses.
Poor Hearing Demands An Ortho-Tronic

Ortho-Tronic is specially recommended for those who have nerve-deafness, or very nervous people. The special exclusive features in Ortho-Tronic enable people to hear beautifully again.

AVOID STRAIN

Hearing loss generally involves severe nerve strain with many complications frequently arising. It puts a greater strain on eyesight to compensate. Often it tends towards nervous irritability. Today you can relax—and hear when you want to and need to with Ortho-Tronic.

ADJUSTABLE TONE DISCRIMINATOR

AN EXCLUSIVE FEATURE

THIS ATTORNEY SAYS:

"I changed to Ortho-Tronic because I had never been able to hear a voice intelligibly amidst noise or the background babble of other voices such as is prevalent in restaurants. The special tone-discriminator on Ortho-Tronic actually eliminates this very annoying objection of the other hearing aids."

IN BUSINESS, TRADE, OR PROFESSION

Many men and women have waited—until they were out of a job—to overcome their handicap and wear an aid. Hearing loss cannot be concealed unless it is mistaken for sullenness or stupidity. Properly fitted with Ortho-Tronic you can hold your own in any normal job or position—and keep your voice and articulation natural.

INCONSPICUOUS, CONVENIENT, WEARABLE

Ortho-Tronic is worn in concealment by a woman and in a man is less conspicuous than a pair of spectacles.

Can you imagine a mother's joy when she watches her little boy, or girl, hearing, who has been deaf since a baby? Bell Telephone Laboratories' new Ortho-Tronic hearing aid is doing this, here in Mansfield.

HEAR! LIVE AGAIN!

WHAT IS HEARING LOSS DOING TO YOUR SPEECH . . . AND THE VOICES OF THOSE YOU LOVE?

ARE YOU SENSITIVE?

If so, think how hard you are making it for your wife, or family or friends. You do not realize how hard of hearing you are and others will not tell you as they do not want to hurt your feelings. Probably you constantly avoid people and hide away from many pleasures. Many times you make believe you hear when you do not, perhaps. Possibly you interrupt others talking without knowing it. You will help your wife, family and friends by wearing Ortho-Tronic.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME
. . this Christmas Day!

Home is a long way from our men fighting in the jungles of Guadalcanal and the sands of Tunisia — yet not too far for thoughts and hopes to travel on Christmas Day. But millions of other young men in uniform are closer to the ones they love and the places they want to be—near enough for fleeting visits home to brighten the Holidays for themselves and their families.

Men on leave naturally deserve first call on transportation—and get it. But because gasoline rationing for private motor cars has added so greatly to the civilian need for Greyhound service, the cooperation of every traveler is more important now.

You will find it more comfortable to take your trip before the heaviest Holiday rush—and to return after it's over. Voluntarily saving a bus seat for a soldier or a sailor the week before Christmas — that's the American way. At the same time, you'll be aiding the buses to carry as many as possible of all those who have reason to travel.

To help our boys get home, many of us can easily stay home during the Holidays!

Newfoundland Blaze Kills Mansfielder Due Home for Visit

Pfc. Frank M. Yirga Perished In Fire Which Took Toll of 100; Word of Death Dashes Homecoming Plans.

The joy of preparing for the Christmas homecoming of a soldier-son was turned into sorrow today when a Mansfield father and mother learned that the disastrous Newfoundland fire had claimed the life of their son along with 100 others last Saturday night.

Pfc. Frank M. Yirga, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Yirga, 543 Daisy street, was among the three American soldiers who died in the blaze which swept the Knights of Columbus hall in St. Johns, N. F. The other American victims, identified by the Eastern Defense Command, were Pfc. Edward B. Ford, Pittston, Pa., and Technician, 5th grade, Henry L. Kennedy, Glens Falls, N. Y.

PFC. FRANK M. YIRGA

Yirga was the second Mansfielder to die in a major fire within three weeks. On Nov. 28 Howard A. Guy, 37, night club entertainer, lost his life in the Cocoanut Grove holocaust in Boston. In many respects the Newfoundland fire was startlingly similar to the Boston tragedy.

First word of Yirga's death was received here today through newspaper wire services whose dispatches identified the only three American soldier victims in the disaster. Canadian Navy Minister Angus MacDonald disclosed in Ottawa that at least 30 Canadian service men had perished.

No official announcement concerning their son's death has been received as yet by the Yirga family. His parents learned only two weeks ago of the son's anticipated Christmas visit. The Mansfield private had been stationed in Newfoundland nearly six months and had been home at Easter time shortly before he sailed.

Fears that two other Mansfielders stationed in Newfoundland might have been in the hotel at the time it was razed by fire were allayed somewhat by the news release today. Benedict Dillon, son of Mrs. Frank Dillon, 188 Sturges avenue, and a cousin, Glen Dillon, son of Paul Dillon, 170 Glessner avenue, are the only other Mansfielders known to be located there.

Benedict, better known as "Dick," and Yirga were stationed in the same camp and were great chums. The cousin was located in another camp some distance away. Another Mansfield soldier, Jack

Flames Sweep Two Boston Business Blocks, Injuring 42

BOSTON — (UP) — Fire roared through two business blocks in the heart of Boston's shopping district early today, injuring 34 coast guardsmen and eight firemen and causing damage expected to total more than $1,000,000.

It was the third major fire in Boston within a month, 16 days after the Cocoanut Grove night club holocaust that took 488 lives.

A dozen specialty shops and professional offices were swept by the flames but major damage was in Sallinger's, an expensive women's clothing store where huge Christmas stocks and furs were destroyed.

Thousands of spectators were ordered from the area by Deputy Fire Chief William F. Quigley, who feared that a wall of the six-story Armory building would collapse.

The fire started in the basement of Sallinger's, ate through the ceiling and spread to an adjoining bakery shop.

Two alarms were sounded and firemen who responded appeared to have halted the fire. But it cut through partitions and broke out on the opposite side of the

TIRED CONGRESS ADJOURNS TODAY

Longest Session In History Sees Passage of War and Giant Tax Bills.

WASHINGTON — (AP) Work-worn and weary, the 77th congress comes to the end of its legislative life today after an historic two-year struggle, first with the problems of a tremulous peace, then with the robust job of arming the nation for global war.

The house and senate formally agreed to adjourn at the close of today's business, furnishing a breathing spell until the new congress takes over on Jan. 6.

Longest in history, the 77th congress was in session 715 days. The house met on 404 legislative days. Five senators and 14 representatives died during the two years.

It leaves a tempestuous record of pre-war battles over foreign policies, of sharp skirmishes between isolationists and interventionists; and then of sudden cohesion on war measures as bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

General Supervises Action at Front To Clean Japs Out of Papua.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Stepping up their aerial offensive against the Japs in the south Pacific, U. S. planes attacked enemy bases at Buin in the northern Solomons and for the sixth day rained bombs on the new Nipponese airfield on New Georgia island, the navy announced today. Significantly, the navy stated that no enemy resistance was encountered in either raid on the Jap bases.

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—The Allied air force in New Guinea concentrated today on wiping out Japanese reinforcements and supplies at the mouth of the Mambare river while, 45 miles to the southeast, Australian and American troops mopped up in the Buna area.

From the all-out nature of the air attack, it was evident that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United Nations commander in the South Pacific, did not intend to let the enemy establish any new foothold in New Guinea to prevent the rapidly approaching elimination of Japanese garrisons at the east end of the island.

It was clear also that he would allow the Japanese to set up no advance outpost to hamper the campaign which is expected to follow soon for capture of their bases at Salamaua and Lae.

(A United Press war correspondent at the front reported that it was estimated authoritatively that about 250 Japanese landed at the Mambare river mouth and probably an equal number was killed. Another attempt to land men at the Kumusi river, 12 miles north of Gona, apparently was

21 Escape Injury In Mishap Near Lexington.

Twenty-one school bus passengers escaped injury yesterday afternoon when a bus was sideswiped by an automobile on U. S. Route 42, four miles southwest of Lexington state highway patrolmen said today.

Lee L. Armstrong, 55, Lexington, driver of the school bus, told patrolmen that a car driven by Richard Rinebolt, 24, of Shelby, rammed into the left front fender and side of his bus. Rinebolt was driving toward the bus, Armstrong said. None of the persons involved was injured.

Lloyd Gaverick, Mt. Gilead R. D. 2, whose auto and another operated by Ralph R. Herrick, Pittsburgh, Pa., collided on Route 42 last evening was treated at General hospital for bruises and cuts. On being released he was taken to the Mt. Gilead jail awaiting trial today on an intoxication charge, patrolmen stated.

Sportsmen Protest Lowering Of Pleasant Hill Water Level

Representatives of sportsmen's clubs and outdoor organizations, meeting in Mansfield last night, voted to circulate petitions over a six-county area protesting lowering of the water level in Pleasant Hill lake in Richland and Ashland counties.

The protests will be submitted to Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th district, Gov. John W. Bricker and to Senators Harold Burton and Robert A. Taft.

Gordon Ensminger, chairman of the Richland County Fish and Game association, said the lake had virtually been drained by army engineers after "six or eight" Perrysville residents complained that water was leaking into their basements.

"It has not been proved that the lake was responsible for the water in the Perrysville basements, but if it is, we believe the benefits derived from the lake more than balance the property loss there," Ensminger said.

Ensminger added that lowering of the lake level had killed thousands of fish, ruined sports activities on the lake, and threatened the water level in the Mansfield area.

A committee headed by A. A. Miller, Mansfield, will prepare the petitions and seek 80,000 signatures in Richland, Ashland, Crawford, Wayne, Knox, and Morrow counties.

As Japanese Plane Falls on U. S. Ship

This spectacular picture, an official U. S. Navy photo, shows a Japanese plane, which struck the U. S. cruiser San Francisco on its downward course, leaving a dense column of smoke, center, from the spot where it crashed. The San Francisco, now back in the U. S., can be seen beneath the smoke cloud while a U. S. cargo vessel stands by at left. U. S. fighter planes and anti-aircraft fire accounted for 32 of 33 Jap planes that attacked the U. S. convoy that day.

COLD, SNOW TO EASE HAZARDS

Freezing Mist Causes Auto Crashes; Moving Van Breaks Loose, Hits Car.

Colder weather and possible snow flurries tonight are expected to eliminate some of the skidding hazards of yesterday evening which brought four non-injury auto collision police reports before a "loose" snowfall covered the frozen "grease" which resulted from the afternoon's misty thaw.

Many pedestrians suffered falls or executed wierd gymnastics to prevent being grounded when rain and slush froze into a slippery filament on downtown sidewalks in the early hours of the evening.

When the brakes of a Mansfield Transfer and Storage company truck let loose the van broke from its moorings on North Franklin avenue, veered across the pavement and crashed into the auto of G. Miller, 111 North Franklin avenue. Ralph W. Hammer was driver of the truck.

Collisions were reported between cars operated by D. P. Jameson, 100 Glenwood Heights, and Karl Goettle, 693 Maple street, A. M. Scheurer, 121 East Fourth street, and R. S. Osbun truck driver, of 495 Woodward avenue, at East Fourth and Foster streets, Joseph Kleer, Mansfield, R. D. 1, and Mose Haynes, North Diamond street, at East Sixth street and Franklin avenue.

Patrolman Richard Hecht reported that Kleer charged Haynes with driving into the moving traffic at the intersection, his auto skidding against the Kleer car when brakes were applied.

COMMODORE'S KIN DIES

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The last surviving kin of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, War of 1812 hero, is dead. He was Edmund Freeman Perry, 67, a great-grandson.

Reports Story of Dramatic Yankee Message 'Buna Busted'

(Editor's Note: The following dispatch describing the storming and capture of Buna, important Japanese base in New Guinea, by American troops, was written by the only newspaper reporter who was there. United Press war correspondent Frank Hewlett makes a picture of being in the midst of the fighting.)

By FRANK HEWLETT
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT BUNA (Delayed) — Eager young American soldiers, bayonets glistening in early morning sunlight, stormed and captured Buna village, a key Japanese base, today in the first all-American show of the New Guinea campaign.

The attack was opened at 7 a. m. with an artillery and mortar barrage only 100 yards ahead of the advancing infantrymen.

Its climax came at 9 a. m., when the colonel in command received this succinct message from the unit commander which stormed the village: "Buna Busted."

In face of direct enemy fire which, surprisingly, caused only a small number of casualties, the Americans fought through pill boxes and machine gun nests to attack the main enemy force from two sides.

They joined in the village. The firing dwindled gradually until there were only spasmodic machine gun bursts and single rifle shots. The pall of smoke over the front lifted.

A few hours later the colonel had to tell his soldiers in the village to stop hunting souvenirs and start hunting Japanese stragglers and snipers in the surrounding country.

Now, at 8 p. m. some Yanks are wearing Japanese shirts and trousers. Others have Japanese leather belts and mess kits. Most popular are the rubber soled tabis, the Japanese canvas shoes with a special big toe section, designed for tree climbing.

The victory today was no pushover. It was possible only because it was well-planned and executed. Strategically it means that the Americans now hold a substantial beachhead at the river mouth, the best landing for boats in this area.

The victory came after three weeks of fighting in which both

Commission Ready To Give Bates New Leave.

Last night's proposed meeting of the city Civil Service commission was postponed until tonight when it was learned by commission members in the afternoon that they would be required to approve city payrolls tonight in order that checks due municipal employes on Dec. 31 can be given them Dec. 22 for Christmas shopping purposes.

Attorney George W. Biddle, commission president, in announcing the postponement, said today that the board has signified its willingness to "go along" with the Federal Bureau of Investigation by granting a new leave of one year to Meade K. Bates, Mansfield's police chief serving with the federal crime detection bureau.

The commission yesterday recommended that Bates return to his police duties for one hour on Jan. 15 devoting the time to compiling a new application for leave which when approved by Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff, will have the approval of the commission.

Truckers Want 35-Mile Speed Curb Kept Voluntary.

COLUMBUS — (INS) A spokesman for the Ohio trucking interests said today they would oppose any move to lower the statutory maximum speed limit from 50 miles to 35 miles an hour.

It was contended that the best method of enforcing the 35-mile "victory" speed is the present practice of denying tires and extra gasoline allowances to violators.

Survivors of a medium-sized Belgian merchantman, broken in half and sunk when it was torpedoed in mid-Atlantic in September with the loss of one life, were safe in an east coast port today.

Many of the 51 survivors were blasted into the water when the torpedo struck amidships, and one man, a deck officer, was unconscious in the water for two hours before he was picked up, the survivors said. The survivors were rescued by a Canadian warship.

City, County to Be Honored For War Bond Sales Success

Mansfield and Richland county war bond sale successes will be recognized at a community demonstration here Jan. 20 when a special Treasury department flag will be presented by H. E. Bredlow, the Treasury's Ohio war savings staff secretary, and other outstanding national and state leaders.

All firms which have achieved an employe payroll deduction of 10 per cent of gross payroll with a 90 per cent participation of employes will be privileged to participate in the ceremony, Paul Eliot, county war bond sales chairman, announced today. These 115 firms can acquire the "10 Per Cent Minute Man" flags through arrangement with Eliot.

The Minute Man flag day has been set for Jan. 21 following the presentations on the preceding day.

Outstanding achievement of Mansfield and Richland county in piling up a sale of $628,000 in bonds on Pearl Harbor day has attracted national attention.

Eliot reported today that more companies and organizations are joining the 10 per cent ranks daily and it is hoped that 250 flags will be presented at the Jan. 20 celebration. Plans are being formulated to make this another tremendous demonstration of the community's Axis-destroying attitude.

Allied Patrols Find Northern Posts Vacant

British Eighth Army Continues Driving Rommel Force Westward to Tripoli As Allies Smash Tunisian Coast With Mounting Air Attacks.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—The Allied pincers in North Africa clamped tighter on Axis troops today as the British Eighth army pushed more than 50 miles west of El Agheila.

(By United Press)

LONDON—German forces apparently have withdrawn from some of their advanced positions in northern Tunisia, the Morocco radio reported today as the British Eighth Army drove westward through Libya toward Tripoli and a junction with the Tunisian Allied army.

British planes based on Malta joined in a big scale attack on shipping along the east coast of Tunisia where the Axis was desperately pouring in reinforcements for its last ditch stand on the African continent.

Radio Morocco said the Allied patrols in the Tunis-Bizerte corner of northeast Tunisia, moving out to feel the strength of enemy dispositions, had found no trace of Axis troops at points where they had previously been reported around Medjez-el-bab, 30 miles southwest of Tunis.

The Allied positions along the battle line were firmly held, it was reported.

The Morocco radio reported that in their constant attacks on shipping and supply centers Allied planes had sunk five merchantmen, including three at Tunis, one at Bizerte and one off Sicily, in addition to doing great damage to land targets.

Constantly intensified Allied aerial activity in the Tunisian zone gave rise to hope here that the Allies had neared the point of tactical superiority over the Axis and that a decisive attack might be possible when the road dried enough for tank movement.

It was hoped here that Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied commander-in-chief, might start his big attack before the Germans and Italians retreating through Libya could reach Tunis, apparently their objective.

Spanish dispatches from Algiers reported that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had arrived in Tripoli to organize the Axis stand.

Rommel's battered Afrika Korps was already more than 40 miles west of El Agheila in Tripolitania, fleeing westward under a terrific Allied plane attack.

In northeast Tunisia, a blazing sun was fast drying the mud so

Drive Armored Wedge Into Red Positions Southwest of Stalingrad.

MOSCOW — (AP) — German units slashing hard at the left wing of the Red army southwest of Stalingrad, were reported today to have driven an armored wedge into the Russian lines after mounting full scale attacks bolstered by tanks and planes.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said the Germans struck heavily and repeatedly at positions occupied only recently by the Russians who had not had time to consolidate them.

The Axis attacks were described as evidently the strongest they have been able to muster since the beginning of the Russians' winter offensive Nov. 19 but the dispatch declared there was still no sign that they had succeeded in shattering the encircling ring in which they were caught before Stalingrad.

Death Toll Uncertain as Bus Plunges Into River.

GLOUCESTER POINT, Va — (AP) — A bus loaded with workmen plunged into the York river today from the water end of a Gloucester-Yorktown ferry. Twenty-five occupants of the bus were rescued, but it was not learned immediately whether there was any loss of life.

State police said a preliminary report indicated there was at least one fatality.

C. D. Burke, assistant manager of the Gloucester-Yorktown Ferry company said it had not been determined how many persons were aboard the light contractor's bus, which was en route to the navy mine depot near Yorktown.

The bus toppled into about 15 feet of water as the ferry was pulling out of the slip about 7:25 a. m.

Draft Boards to Enlist for Navy, Marines, Guards

Enlistments in the navy, marine corps, and coast guard, as well as the army, which were banned by recent presidential order, will continue as "voluntary inductions" under selective service, local boards were informed today.

Men between the ages of 18 and 38 desiring service in these branches have until Feb. 1 to make application with their boards. Forms for "voluntary induction" which must be prepared will be available at the boards until this date when procedure will be established under the War Manpower board so that calls may be levied for all branches of the armed forces.

Enlistments of those who applied for these services prior to President Roosevelt's Dec. 5 order ended yesterday.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — An ample holiday supply of liquor in state stores for prospective celebrants may be available, State Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor said today.

Deliveries from distillers, he said, are improving and reports from localities over the state indicate the "pressure is off" on state stores, which last week experienced a run from worried customers.

that resumption of major ground activity there was in prospect.

Dispatches reported that Allied air reconnaissance confirmed the continued urgent flow of men and materials from Tripoli, capital of Libya, to the east coast of Tunisia.

Spain reported that Rommel, at Tripoli, had speeded the flow of reinforcements to such ports as Gabes and Sfax, which the United States army 12th air force in Tunisia were attacking day and night, while he studied the problem of organizing the remnants of his own forces and the German-Italian garrisons in northeast Tunisia.

Military experts made various suggestions of points along the Libyan coast at which Rommel might essay delaying actions — Nofilia, 90 miles west of El Agheila; Sirte, 165 miles west of El Agheila; Buerat El Hsun, 210 miles west of El Agheila, or Misurata, 285 miles west of El Agheila.

But the speed of Rommel's retreat, the terrific attack of the Allied air forces and the revelation at London yesterday by Richard G. Casey, British minister of state for the middle east, that when the British Eighth army started its advance from El Alamein Oct. 23 it was prepared for a 1,500 mile advance hardened belief that the real Axis stand would be made only in Tunisia.

Spanish dispatches suggested that Rommel might be preparing a defense line that would extend roughly southwestward from the El Bibane lagoon on the Tunisian coast just beyond the Libyan border to the sandy foothills of the Dahar mountains 100 miles inland.

On the north, the dispatches suggested, this defense area might be bounded by the Gabes isthmus and the salty waters of the Chott El Djerid lakes.

This theater would permit Rommel to anchor his line to the coast on one side and the lakes and mountains 100 miles inland. He would have the advantage also of the Tatahouine and other lake systems which would slow an Allied advance from Libya.

Dispatches from Egypt and Spain agreed that Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's Eighth army forces were advancing and consolidating at amazing speed.

Airdromes were being removed forward daily as were supplies by giant American transport planes. It was reported that engineers had already made ruined Benghazi harbor useable for ships. Spain said that expert British engineers were advancing rapidly, blowing up the Axis mine fields in the Eighth army's path.

Italians Report New Raids on Beirut

ROME (from Italian broadcasts) — (AP)—The Italian high command asserted today that its long range bombers had raided two Allied ports at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, scoring hits on oil refineries at Beirut and oil depots at Tripoli, on the Syrian coast.

Two Italian planes were reported missing in these raids.

(This indicates a revival of activity in a long dormant theater. Tripoli, not to be confused with the North African city, is 50 miles north of Beirut, chief port of the Syria-Lebanon region.)

The communique reported fierce [illegible] between Italian-German armored units and enemy forces of preponderant strength on the border between Cyrenaica and [illegible] in which 16 enemy tanks and several guns were destroyed.

building in a shoe store. While firemen were battling the fire there, more flames were discovered in offices over their heads.

Ultimately five alarms were sounded, bringing more than half the city's 1,200 firemen to the scene.

An emergency call brought 270 coast guardsmen to the blaze to aid in handling crowds and the ice-glazed hoselines.

Lt. Charles Ashley directed the guardsmen, many of whom were felled by the acrid smoke that billowed through downtown streets. Ten of the 34 suffering smoke inhalation were hospitalized with at least seven firemen among the smoke victims

A special guard was set up before the Washington Jewelry company store as firemen sought to retrieve thousands of dollars worth of gems stored in vaults.

Center of the blaze was the Armory building but flames spread all along the block at Washington and West streets to the adjoining Blake building.

Blames Employes in $100,000 Blaze

CLEVELAND — (INS) — While First Assistant Fire Chief James E. Nimmo blamed company employes for not calling the fire department soon enough, 10 fire companies today placed a $100,000 blaze at the Great Lakes Paper Box company, under control after an all-night battle.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the 3-alarm blaze, which destroyed the second and third floors of the 400-foot building, and damaged the first floor offices and plant of the Dobeckmun company, manufacturers of tarpaulin, when a 25-year-old pumper cracked a cylinder.

The fire, cause of which was undetermined, had swept one side of the building when firemen reached the scene.

After attempting to extinguish the blaze before firemen arrived, 100 Great Lakes company employes fled from the building as hundreds of spectators gathered outside the walls.

KEEP BRITISH IN SHACKLES

Germans Indicate They Have Not Yet Freed Prisoners.

(By United Press)

The Germans indicated today that they still have not unshackled British war prisoners, although the British let German prisoners out of their irons last Saturday.

A Trans-Oceanic agency dispatch broadcast by radio Berlin said the German foreign office "merely pointed out that diplomatic discussions on this matter had not been concluded."

The Germans instituted shackling of prisoners, on the charge that British Commandos had shackled four or five Germans in a raid. "In reprisal," the Germans shackled all British prisoners taken in the Dieppe raid, and the British subsequently shackled the same number of Germans.

Newsman on Scene Describes How Americans Took Jap Stronghold.

sides suffered substantial casualties and nine days after a small American party punched through to the sea and isolated the village from the Japanese forces at the mission.

I accompanied the main storming force after living in the front for three days awaiting the kill.

Going up to the front were many lean, tired, dirty soldiers, lugging heavy cases of hand grenades, mortar shells and machine gun and rifle bullets to replenish the supply, depleted by a day of heavy fighting.

Exactly at 7 a. m. today, the mortar men put down a barrage as precise as that of fixed field guns on the enemy positions and the American Doughboys moved out.

While the mortar shells arched high over our heads, the machine gunners and tommy gunners chattered from in front, punctured by the occasional explosion of a hand grenade thrown into a Japanese pill box or machine gun nest.

About half an hour after the attack opened, tagging the colonel in command, I was kneeling in the mud behind a clump of bushes, dodging snipers, when a blast nearly knocked me over. Then came another blast. A young lieutenant fell on his face in the mud less than 15 feet away. He was wounded only slightly and was able to walk to a dressing station.

We moved into the village behind the shock troops, past the enemy pill boxes at the edge of the trail. The village was filled with bomb craters. It had been bombed for four months and all the cocoa palms were scarred.

What I have seen at Buna has impressed me with the way the Americans are rapidly adapting themselves to jungle conditions. The troops are in excellent physical condition and their morale is high.

was slow-moving but crushing, and in the territory west of Rzev soldiers of the Red army slogged into two more villages after violent battle.

The Rzev and Stalingrad areas provided the sharpest fighting in recent engagements.

The midday communique said that 700 Germans were killed west of Rzev within 24 hours as at least two fierce enemy counterattacks were repulsed and several enemy strongpoints were occupied.

Reference to Velikie Luki fighting, 90 miles from the Latvian border, has been missing from recent communiques but today's noon war bulletin noted that the Red army was attempting to wipe out German garrisons it had surrounded

It also listed more than 1,000 Axis soldiers slain in the fighting last night around Stalingrad.

Fire Officials See Need for Third Exit at Townsend Hall

Installation of a third exit, to accommodate a crowd of not more than 300 persons, will be required at Radio City hall, at 64½ North Walnut street, it was indicated today following an inspection of the premises by Frank Gorsuch, Mt. Vernon, state factories and public buildings inspector, and Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger.

Archie May, president of the Townsend club and holder of the lease on the rooms, told Gorsuch and Seeburger that crowds usually attending Republican rallies and the Saturday night Townsend bingo parties do not exceed the 300 maximum limit. "The state law requires," Chief Seeburger explained, "that an exit be provided for each 100 persons."

Today's inspection followed an investigation Monday headed by Gayle Owen, Marion, deputy state fire marshal. Owen said that he had come to Mansfield at the request of Seeburger which was submitted two weeks ago and was "quite surprised" when Mayor Locke, on seeing him in the City hall, suggested the inspection of a night club which already had complied with Seeburger's instructions for the elimination of possible fire hazards.

Gorsuch and Seeburger said today they would request State Fire Marshal Ray Gill to order the installation of the third exit at Radio City hall, and to require a fourth exit if crowds greater than 300 are anticipated.

unsuccessful or of negligible importance it was said.)

A spokesman at headquarters intimated that MacArthur personally supervised the maneuver that led Monday to occupation of the village of Buna. It was said the American troops who pushed through neck-deep swamps to take Buna were visited by the "highest ranking American general" in this area and that the general directed the operation "from close range."

MacArthur flew to New Guinea last month, after Australian and American forces crossed the Owen Stanley mountains to pin the Japanese against the long, narrow range of beach from Gona to Cape Endaiadere. He has been near the front for all the step-by-step rooting out of the enemy from jungle and swamp fastnesses.

Ground forces maintained heavy pressure in all remaining sectors around Buna, a communique said.

Heavy bombers attacked the Japanese airdrome at Lae again. Another squadron of heavies made a night raid on the enemy airdrome at Gasmata, on the south coast of New Britain, shooting down three and damaging two of a dozen enemy fighters that tried interception.

Pealer, had recently been transferred from Newfoundland back to the states for Officer Candidate training.

Born in Mansfield, April 20, 1919, Yirga attended St. Peter's Catholic school and after graduation entered St. Joseph's college at Rensselaer, Ind. He was there for one year and then took a year's training at the Mansfield Business college.

He had played piano with Bob Charles' orchestra for a time after his graduation from high school and was popular as a pianist. For the last year and a half before induction into the army he was employed in the office of the Martin Steel Products company.

In addition to his parents, Yirga has two brothers and four sisters. Stephen Yirga, 27, was sworn into the navy last week and is now at home awaiting call. Two sisters, Margaret, pupil at St. Peter's high school, and Ann Yirga, are also at home. The others are John P. Yirga, 526 Daisy street; Mrs. Rexford Stahl, 520 Daisy street, and Miss Helen Yirga, employed at the navy recruiting station in Cleveland.

The young soldier was inducted into the army in October, 1941, and was stationed for the first several months at Fort Eustis, Va. While there he and another Mansfielder, Technical Corporal Robert Renie, were visited by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Renie, during the holidays last year.

Later Yirga was transferred to Brooklyn and remained there until he sailed for New Foundland. He came home a few days before Easter but his leave was interrupted by sailing orders. He left Mansfield on Good Friday.

Bucyrus Council Gives City Employes More Pay.

BUCYRUS — City council last night voted a 10 per cent pay increase for all city employes except the service and safety director and waterworks superintendent, but withheld action on the request of the Crawford Ministerial association for a midnight closing order for taverns in the city.

In voting the pay raises, councilmen said they "may have to turn off some of the white way lights later to pay them."

Council held up the requested increases for the three employes pending further study.

Action on the tavern closing request was delayed, it was said, until the Ohio legislature takes action on a similar proposal which would affect the entire state.

H. P. Jones, Toledo engineer, submitted a report to council on a survey of the needs of the city waterworks system, recommending a new supply reservoir, pumps and other improvements at a total cost of $552,000. Council took the report under advisement.

NAZIS ATTACK ENGLISH COAST

Two Wounded During Raids On Two Areas.

LONDON — (AP) — Four Nazi Focke-Wulf 190's attacked the English south coast this afternoon and one raider, which approached the outskirts of London, set off a brief alarm, the first in the capital's environs since Oct. 26.

Only one suburban area was affected by the alert which ended, apparently, without incident. Machine-gun bullets, however, wounded two persons and caused minor damage to buildings in the coast town.

Another lone, low-flying raider planted bombs in a second south coast town then machine-gunned the area. Some buildings were damaged and some persons were injured.

HOW DID YOUR HOME "TAKE IT" IN WARTIME WINTER'S FIRST TEST?

December's first blasts of winter already have tested to some extent the ability of your home to "take it" this winter. Regardless of what fuel you are using to heat with, you should do everything possible to conserve that fuel in this wartime winter. Check over again some of the things which will save gas — and other fuels — used in central home heating.

ARE WINDOWS AND DOORS TIGHT?

Loose fitting windows and doors are some of the most common means of heat loss in a home. Make sure they are tight in your home.

ARE EXPOSED AREAS PROTECTED?

It is authoritatively estimated that more than 25% of the heat loss of the average home is through windows. Thus, it is important to have windows, especially in exposed areas of the house, protected by storm windows. Storm doors, also, are important.

HOW TEMPERATURE REGULATION AFFECTS GAS USAGE IN HOME HEATING

The table below shows how much less or more gas is consumed when temperatures are regulated below or above 70 degrees.

Temperature	Cost
65 degrees	15.6% less than for 70 degrees
66 degrees	12.5% less than for 70 degrees
68 degrees	6.2% less than for 70 degrees
70 DEGREES	0.0%
72 degrees	6.2% more than for 70 degrees
74 degrees	12.5% more than for 70 degrees
75 degrees	15.6% more than for 70 degrees

ARE CEILINGS AND WALLS INSULATED?

Ceiling and side wall insulations will substantially reduce fuel consumption. If at all possible, insulate your home as much as you can.

ARE PLANS MADE to shut off rooms not in use in extremely cold weather . . . to keep doors tightly closed on bedrooms in which windows are opened at night . . . to keep drapes and shades pulled over exposed windows . . . to keep home temperatures regulated so as to save as much fuel as possible and eliminate overheating (see table at left)? These and other things which every family can do to save gas this winter will add up to an extremely worthwhile contribution to the government's fuel conservation program.

PLAN LARGER QUARTERS FOR RATION BOARD

Shelby Board Offices Will Be Remodeled If OPA Gives Approval.

SHELBY—Plans are going forward for the remodeling of the rationing offices on the second story of the city building, it was learned today.

To be financed by federal funds if approval of the project is received from OPA, the remodeling would include the enlarging of the offices so that each rationing panel would have a separate window available to the public.

Tentative plans discussed by officials includes the construction of a partition north and south along the room, making half of the second story of the building office space for the rationing board. The other half would be used by the public calling at the office.

The present office includes only the south end of the second story room and was set up as the relief office and for sugar rationing. Now, all rationed articles are handled through three clerks of the various rationing panels and Mason S. Freeman, relief director and chairman of the Shelby rationing board, at the small office.

BUCYRUS MAN WINS SUIT FOR OVERTIME PAY

$800 Judgment Against Bus Lines Legal, Supreme Court Holds.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The state supreme court today refused to reconsider Crawford county court judgments of more than $800 against Buckeye Stages, Inc., and Pennsylvania Grayhound Lines, Inc., on behalf of a station agent who claimed violation of the Fair Labor Standards acts.

George W. Ward, station agent at Bucyrus, sued the Buckeye Lines and Greyhound which took over those lines Jan. 1, 1939, for payment for 1,200 hours of alleged overtime work for which he claimed he had not been paid. The court refused on the grounds that there was no debatable constitutional question involved.

The county common pleas court awarded him $46 plus an equal amount for damages and an additional $200 for attorney's fees in claims against the Buckeye Lines, and $115 plus an equal amount for damages and an additional $300 for attorney's fees in claims against the Greyhound Lines. The county appeals court affirmed the judgment.

The bus lines claimed Ward, as an executive, was exempt from provisions of the Fair Labor act, that he had not worked without full remuneration, and that a $1,700 settlement in June, 1940, satisfied all claims and served to release them from prosecution.

ENLIST IN NAVY

LAKEVILLE—Gale Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lee, and J. P. Spurlock, well known here, went to Cleveland Monday to be inducted into the navy. Both were married men with no children.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1942.

A change for the better is noted in the fact that more people are "taking jobs" than are "accepting positions."

Solution of the farm problem seems to be brought no nearer by intimation that $2,400 a year is a fair wage for farm hands.

Then again, the hint of whisky rationing may have been a slick move to bring the year's business in state liquor stores up to the predicted ninety million dollar mark.

Congress Ending Strenuous Session

WHATEVER else may be said of the 77th congress, now at the adjournment point, it must at least be credited with having served through as difficult and quick-changing two-year period as any congress in history.

Probably never before have a considerable number of congressmen been compelled to swing so abruptly from one position to another as were isolationist spokesmen when congress assembled on Monday morning, December 8, last year—the day after Japan attacked Pearl Harbor.

While congress had theretofore recognized Atlantic and European dangers and proceeded in a half-hearted way toward a "defense" program, with sometimes grudging aid to anti-Axis nations, the Japanese threat in the Pacific and Far East was almost entirely ignored—at least insofar as effective action was concerned.

The lackadaisical attitude was reflected in refusal to support the proposal to fortify Guam, provide funds for better protection of the Philippines, cut off shipments of scrap metal to Japan and to act with greater determination in expanding the nation's military forces.

There is still a shudder at the thought that it was only by a margin of one vote that congress extended the training period of draftees just a few months before this country was plunged into war.

In its pre-Pearl Harbor attitude toward impending war congress seemed more responsive to a loud-mouthed minority which preached pacifism and isolationism than to the realities of a situation which left no alternative to actual participation in the war.

During the past year congress may be credited with having proceeded, to the best of its ability, to further the national war effort, but in its half-way taxation program, its catering to "blocs", its effort to carry on a war without sacrifice of New Deal theories, and its failure to curb tremendous non-military expenditures, it has fallen far short of WHAT MUST BE DONE to meet the demands of all-out war.

The 78th congress, which will get into action Wednesday, January 6, will be more evenly balanced politically—with 222 Democrats to 208 Republicans in the house and increased Republican strength in the senate—but this should mean nothing in matters having to do with the war.

On this point there should be no division and the chief concern of every legislator should be to give encouragement to all sound measures designed to win the war quickly and meet post-war problems intelligently.

Voting in November revealed dissatisfaction over administration handling of domestic affairs—in which there has been much fumbling. With this record of experience, experimentation and mistakes available for their guidance, more can be expected of members of the incoming congress than of those who were required to cope with problems that hurried along one after another during the past two years.

Don't Forget Natural Resources

MANY people think of war industries as those which actually turn out the finished products. But in reality, the plane, tank, ship and gun factories are the vital middle men in a production chain that starts deep in coal and metal mines, forests, and in vast oil fields where the pumps and refining plants work night and day to furnish lubrication and fuel by the billions of gallons to keep the wheels of industry and of war turning.

Natural resources are the key to victory. This country has those resources. Moreover, under efficient management, they are imparting raw materials in quantities that stagger the imagination.

The genius of the men who operate the natural resource industries, is second only to the greatness of the resources themselves. Together, they are an unbeatable combination. In the peace to come, they will be the starting point of a new world, just as they are now the starting point of our entire war effort.

When the last shot has been fired, our basic industries, like free enterprise in all other fields, will turn again to the sole task of creating a fuller, more comfortable life for all.

That is why we must preserve free enterprise. It is the key to a better civilization. It guarantees both political and economic freedom to the individual. And the natural resources are the foundation of our existence as a sovereign nation.

Better Way Should Be Found

THE EXTENT to which co-operative effort is required in accomplishing any task is plainly evident in connection with the strike of newspaper deliverers in New York City, where several million persons have been deprived of their newspaper because of inability to make deliveries.

It was a matter of wage dispute, and refusal of strikers to continue on their jobs pending negotiations, that caused the trouble.

All other departments of the newspapers were in operation as usual. News was gathered, written, put into type and printed—but one thing was missing—distribution facilities.

Just as one small broken part can make a gigantic machine useless, so can the non-co-operation of a few persons nullify the work of many. It may be wondered what line of reasoning was followed by these strikers who claim not to be bound by a wartime "no strike agreement" and who had continued to work until just at the holiday season when the newspapers that had employed them were endeavoring to perform efficient service under difficult conditions.

"There'll always be an England"—and sometime again there'll be a France—but not the sort that Hitler has mapped out.

One nice thing about McNutt is that it can always be said that "he looks the part"—whatever the part may be.

Now that he has reverted to "Schicklgruber, the paper-hanger," Hitler doesn't seem nearly so unbeatable.

"Man wants but little here below"—and by the first of the year he'll be lucky if he's able to find it.

Estimate Five-Year Liquor Supply

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Liquor rationing is coming into effect in various parts of Dixie and maybe in some northern neighborhoods.

This isn't a recrudescence of prohibition. Predictions were made that that would be a wartime development, but it hasn't appreciably manifested itself, as yet, anyway. Probably the recollection of our last experience hasn't worn off so soon.

The present apprehension evidently is that a scarcity threatens and that a few selfish consumers shouldn't be permitted to sop up the entire supply of alcohol regardless of the general community's appetite, just as sugar, coffee and such stuff shouldn't be hogged indifferently to the public interest.

In its way, it verges on being an anti-prohibitionistic sentiment. The theory is that all and everybody's right to an occasional drink should be guaranteed against the greed of a comparatively small number.

Federal machinery for the enforcement of restrictions is lacking thus far.

To date they're being administered, here and there, on a country-wide basis, but the aim's to make it state-wide, and, later, national, if possible. Retailers may be pretty hard to manage, but distillers can be controlled very rigorously. If, then, the retailer oversells himself, he simply will have his subsequent orders disregarded by his wholesaler. He won't have the goods to dispense, no matter how loudly his customers may holler for 'em.

Stretching It.

Official statistics indicate that the reservoir of hard drinks is sufficient to meet a three-year normal over-the-bar demand. The scheme's to make it last for five years.

Beer isn't mentioned. That may come later.

A price ceiling perhaps likewise will take care of itself automatically presently.

The saloonist doubtless can be trusted to boost the lid independently.

Another odd little thing is becoming apparent in connection with wartime influences upon the Yankee drinkatite.

Men and women differ in tastes as to their pet lubricants.

It wasn't noticed until the advent of the holiday season.

Then, at all clubs and public gathering-places, WAACS and WAVES began to call overwhelmingly for tasty concoctions like eggnog and similar sweetly-tasting mixtures.

To the masculine taste these dopes class virtually as candy.

The boys think the gals should adapt themselves to a menu of vicious slugs of "licker," same as male addiction. The ladies, they say, are soldiers in this generation, and ought to conform accordingly.

The gals reply that they've been recruited and are fully entitled to have the lads get down to a diet of what THEIR sex dictates.

Man About Manhattan

The Roving Itch

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — More and more during the last two or three years I have found myself hunched over cable desks reading the dispatches from Cario, Moscow and New Delhi, or sneaking off to newsreel theaters to catch the newest shots of attacks on Allied convoys, when I might better and more honestly have served this column by sticking my nose into backstage theater doors or inquiring into the domestic pursuits of Miss Gypsy Rose Lee.

One day when things weren't going any too well at Sevastapol and when, as usual, I was hanging around the cable desk, one of the editors jibed, "Tucker, if you spent more time on Shubert Alley and less time over those teletypewriters you'd write a better column."

I didn't argue with him. There wasn't much to say. I knew I was restless, that I wanted to go abroad as a newspaperman, and that if I couldn't do that I'd take 2nd best and go into the army on my own. After all, I had had four years of military experience. I knew what dragging through the dust and the ditches and the mud was like. Long ago on the proving grounds of McClelland I qualified for a commission. It wasn't just a hunch, or something that had come to me through a rose-glow impulse.

* * *

SO I went back to my desk and wrote out a request for service abroad, stating my reasons and the way I felt as frankly as I knew how.

In due time my editor called me.

He said, "Sit down."

He said, "You've made application for foreign service."

He said, "Why?"

That's a funny question, Why. If you answer honestly you might be misunderstood. You might give the impression that you think your talents are too high for Broadway. You might make people think you're posing as a hero.

Nevertheless, I tried. I told him about a big, stocky kid out of Birmingham, Alabama, whose name is Bill MacDonald. Bill was an early bird. Long before the Germans went into Poland he disappeared into those lost, hidden valleys of China and taught young Chinese pilots how to kill Japs and fly planes.

Bill MacDonald is a friend of mine, and today he is Chiang Kai-Shek's personal pilot. It was he who helped build the Flying Tigers. When he gets back to New York on those rare and infrequent vacations we sit in hotel rooms and talk, and I keep thinking of all the wonderful stories there are to be written, not only in China, but in all the corners of the world where there are wars and fighting men.

I told him about Frank Higgs, known more intimately to his friends as "Dude." "Dude" came out of Ohio State university and he too went to China to teach young pilots how to kill and to fly. Perhaps you remember a picture of him in Life Magazine not so long ago, with two big forty-fives strapped to his middle, grinning at Clare Boothe Luce's camera. "Dude," too, is a friend of mine. One day he got a note from one of his pupils who, "in admiration" was sending him a concrete manifestation of his regards and affection. He was sending "Dude" a little gift, he said. When the "gift" got there it turned out to be an 18-year-old concubine. Flabbergasted, "Dude" sent the little newcomer scampering back to her mama and then sat down and wrote me all about it. That letter was printed in this column, and when I printed it I wondered why I wasn't out there writing stories myself instead of sitting here publishing what other people wrote.

I TOLD him about Bill McGaffin and Preston Grover, though that was presumptuous because he knew all about Bill McGaffin and Preston Grover. They are his boys. Preston Grover used to write a column out of Washington, and Bill McGaffin used to sit at a desk just a few feet from mine here in this office. One day last February McGaffin turned up on a British destroyer east bound from Gibraltar.

Suddenly that destroyer was racing to the rescue of a British convoy that had been attacked between Malta and Alexandria. McGaffin didn't know it, but Preston Grover was on one of the merchantmen in that convoy. The Luftwaffe came and the Luftwaffe saw and though it didn't conquer there was a running fight, with some ships hit and others lost, until, eventually, the convoy got through, and then McGaffin and Grover went ashore to write their stores. Not until those stories were being written did either know the other was there. It was one of the interesting journalistic events of the war, and their eye-witness accounts were printed side by side in newspapers all over the United States.

I told him all this, and tried to make him understand that for me, at least, the war now had become uppermost, and would be until it was over.

He said, "All right."

He said, "Why haven't you come to me before?"

He said, "You're going to Cairo."

Interpreting the War News

Rommel Loses Fineness of Touch As His Army Faces Suicidal Task

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

CAIRO—Marshal Rommel's withdrawal from El Agheila is not a matter of vast surprise since it was a foregone conclusion that a terrific weight of air power could be thrown against him.

The battle is still too young to give much clue as to what stand the Nazi marshal may make in new positions. As for the British and Allied forces, I returned only a few days ago from the desert front, where I found the highest possible confidence among all ranks.

What is more to the point, the troops were eager to fight and when you have an army with morale like that you can perform wonders with it.

On the other hand, the Nazi marshal seems to have lost the fineness of touch which, prior to his recent debacle at El Alamein, had rescued him from uncomfortable spots and brought him victories.

He is no longer the laughing cavalier who rode his iron charger into battle and worked his tactics out on the field of action with a theatrical display which he obviously enjoyed.

* * *

MARSHAL ROMMEL'S famous Africa corps and his Italian units had for some days been displaying extreme nervousness behind their defenses at El Agheila. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's bombardment and persistent prodding of the Axis line for weak spots were grim warnings that he was set for action and would strike like lightning the moment he discovered the opening he sought. Axis fears were registered clearly in wild bursts of artillery fire and continual use of flares to light the desert by night.

The Boche had ample reasons for their fears. Indications are that the Nazi marshal is weak in all parts of his fighting machine.

As explained in previous articles, the fact is that Hitler assigned Rommel to do a holding operation which may be suicidal. Somewhere in Tripolitania the marshal is supposed to make a stand in an effort to halt the eager British Eighth army and the British and American air units.

His task is to hold until his master can realign Nazi forces for the defense of Europe. Nazidom hopes, meantime, it will be possible to pierce the Allied aerial and sea blockade and provide reinforcements for the hard-pressed Axis in both Tripolitania and Tunisia.

One of Rommel's greatest weaknesses is in the air. As at El Alamein, so now at El Agheila the British and American air fleets hold heavy superiority. His defenses at El Agheila and, more important, his communications have been blasted day after day by bombing which he couldn't stand off.

Hitler hasn't been able to spare warplanes because of the tremendous pressure being put on him in western, southern and eastern Europe by Allied air units. His greatest strain is of course on the Russian front, where the amazing red army has intensified its offensive and is hurling great air units into the conflict. Thus we have a grand example of what coordination among various theaters can achieve.

To me, one of the most striking features of the Eighth army drive has been the manner in which supplies of all categories, including even drinking water, have been rushed to the scene of action over hundreds of miles of desert. Many of the so-called roads literally have been little more than wheel tracks in fluid sand.

FOR days I motored as part of this endless line of transport—the lifeline of the army. Later I flew over the huge territory and looked down on the boundless sandpile which was crawling with trucks like a giant anthill. It is hard to believe that such efficiency could be achieved in a land so handicapped by nature.

You have to see and know the desert to understand how much determination and skill have been involved in this feat of transportation.

Actually when Rommel first halted at El Agheila he had greater defensive strength than was evident on his immediate front. He was close to his base at Tripoli because of his long retreat while Montgomery, in order to pursue the enemy, had been racing away from his main base.

However, British transport was pouring out after its army from the moment the Axis rout began. Each hour, the long line of traffic increased and moved with few hitches over the war-pitted roads, even while the British engineers were repairing, with remarkable facility, culverts and bridges which the retreating Rommelites had blown up.

Had Rommel possessed a strong air force that traffic would have offered a target as big as all outdoors.

Territorial Gains of Allies Exceed Enemy

—By J. C. OESTREICHER

WITH all signs pointing to eventual Allied victory in Tunisia and as chances of any successful stand by Rommel anywhere in Libya receded with each passing hour, a survey of recent events since the tide of war changed in favor of the Allies presents an enlightening if not astonishing picture.

Despite the tremendous territorial losses in the Far East which followed Japan's entry into the war a year ago, the British empire and the United States actually have gained immeasurably in territories liberated from real or potential Axis domination and in populations brought into the orbit of freedom and democracy.

Excluding certain minor pinpoints such as Wake, Guam and the Andaman islands in the Indian ocean, here is a tabulation of territories lost since the war began:

Burma—261,610 square miles.

The Philippines—115,026 square miles.

Hong Kong—354 square miles.

Malaya—51,866 square miles.

The Channel Islands—75 square miles.

Borneo—29,500 square miles.

Total Territory Lost — 458,431 square miles.

With the likelihood the Union Jack soon will wave over Libya and remain there until ultimate disposition of Premier Mussolini's vanquished empire has been decided upon, here is the scoreboard in favor of the United Nations:

Ethiopia—350,000 square miles.

Libya—679,358 square miles.

Somaliland — 194,000 square miles.

Eritrea—15,754 square miles.

Syria and Lebanon — 57,000 square miles.

Madagascar — 241,094 square miles.

Morocco—231,500 square miles.

Algiers—222,180 square miles.

Total—1,976,032 square miles.

If to this figure is added French West Africa, French equatorial Africa, the Belgian Congo, Dutch and French possessions in the West Indies and South America and vast other areas of the world that came willingly under the flag of Democracy but might have gravitated the other way and necessitated military action as in the case of Madagascar and Syria, the gains to the United Nations reach almost astronomical proportions.

And no consideration whatever is being taken of the valuable milage being regained and recaptured every day in the southwestern Pacific.

Reduced to fundamentals, this chart brings out in high relief the astounding disclosure that the Rome-Berlin Axis, the original perpetrator of this war, the allegedly invincible military machine that started the whole thing, has nothing more than the 75 square miles of the channel islands of Jersey, Guernsey and Sark to show as spoils carved out of the British empire itself.

Adolf Hitler has the continent of Europe, but Europe has never been under the Union Jack.

Timely Editorial

Farmers' Hours.

"Why should anybody expect to work less than 54 hours a week in a time of national peril? If a laboring man works eight extra hours on Saturday, his weekly income is increased a flat 30 per cent. And if he works seven days a week his weekly income automatically increases 70 per cent."

That was Edward A. O'Neal speaking. O'Neal who is president of the American Farm bureau federation.

His question is appropriate. WHY SHOULD anyone expect to work less than 54 hours a week in times like these? Farmers work 70 to 80 hours a week as a matter of course. They get paid for their time, of course, but they don't get time and a half for everything over 40 hours and they don't get double time for the seventh day in a week.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Very Wary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE SEASON for hunting ring necked pheasants is past, but still I keep hearing the tall tales of the hunters. Before the season started, I frequently saw a flock of hens and cocks up by the border of the woods, trying their wings and strutting in gayest fashion. Sometimes a group of ten or more would fly from the hill to the cornfield in the valley floor. Early every morning a cock would call and another, from some distant point, would give defiant answer.

Hunters have made a difference, yet the wary bird, with gorgeous head and drumming wings and outstretched neck has often escaped the hunters' dogs, simply by running.

"The buggars stay concealed within high grass and brush, and run," a hunter told me. "We hunted over along Killbuck, where there's swampy grass on both sides the creek. One field, though, had a ditch dredged out—it was about 12 feet wide, at the top—and my buddy and I hid in it and had good sport. The dogs drove the pheasants out of the grass, on the run, and when they jumped, half flying, over the ditch, we gave it to 'em . . . old and young. And I mean old! My wife cooked one tough bird with long spurs a half day and then the meat tasted like crow leather. Why even the gravy was stringy!"

Another hunter said, "I shot a big cock, running. I saw him fall and writhe, but when I got there to pick him up he wasn't anywhere. A game warden happened along and we tried to solve the mystery. We walked all around the spot where he had bled, looking sharp. Finally the warden noticed a small hummock, with a hole perhaps six inches in diameter . . . a woodchuck's burrow. I poked a stick into this hole, and the end touched something soft. I asked the warden if it would be all right to take the pheasant out, if it was in there. He consented, so I borrowed a long handled shovel from a farmer and started digging. When I came to the pheasant, his body was still limp, but he was dead.

"I kept on digging, to see what I could learn—and you'd hardly believe it, but I unearthed five more pheasants in that same dugout. They'd used it for a regular storm cellar—air raid shelter—bomb-proof cavern . . . well, anyhow, a pheasant is a wary, up-to-date bird!"

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

SUPPOSING you were Old Santa Claus. What a job you'd have! Chimneys waiting everywhere... youngsters' gift lists to be checked. The job certainly calls for that extra something.

You'd get tired and thirsty, too. You'd want that extra something in refreshment —ice-cold Coca-Cola. Well, you'd find it in many homes everywhere. You could help yourself at the icebox and be welcome.

You'd find thirst gone and refreshment arriving. You'd thrill to the taste so delicious and distinctive that it stands alone. You'd know you were enjoying all the quality that skill and choicest ingredients could put there. You'd find refreshment going quickly into energy. You'd be ready again to shout, "Ho, Prancer! Ho, Vixen..."

(You can pretend you're Santa. You don't have to pretend you're enjoying an ice-cold Coca-Cola. Have one!)

Happy moments at home are brighter when ice-cold Coca-Cola adds its life and sparkle. It's an old friend of the family ready to take off its cap and help out any time.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing ... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM GIVEN FOR SOROSIS

Mrs. H. L. Creveling Entertains at Women's Club Tuesday; Reading, Musical Numbers Presented After Luncheon.

FOR THE CHRISTMAS PROGRAM of the Mansfield Sorosis at the Women's Club last evening, Miss Bertha Ruess, a charter member, recited Longfellow's poem, "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day." She explained that at earlier Christmas parties of the club, which was organized 57 years ago, members recited the entire poem in unison. This custom has been discontinued in recent years.

Piano solos were presented by Miss Thelma Reed. Her selections included "Prelude In E Flat," by Gershwin; "En Bateau," by Zeckwer, and "Malaquena," by Lecuona. Mrs. L. E. Rahn directed and played accompaniment for a sketch, "Musical Portraits: A Christmas Story." She was assisted by Mrs. E. N. Cooper, Mrs. Nelson Neff, Mrs. George Hout and Miss Ruess.

Thirty members and guests enjoyed a dessert-luncheon early in the evening Hostess for the occasion was Mrs. H. L. Creveling The table was beautifully decorated in red and green with tall tapers evergreen and pine cones. Mrs. S. D. Hoover, president of the club, and Mrs Bess Albright, presided at the table.

Members took gifts for Friendly House children to the meeting. The packages were placed near a table arrangement of the manger scene. Guests were Mrs. Charles Matti, Mrs. E. C. Jenkins and Mrs. Floyd Smith. Mrs. Charles McClure arranged a program of games and contests which were enjoyed by the group.

Miss Anna Proctor will be hostess for the Jan 5 meeting which will be held a the Women's Club.

Tourist Club Has Program Tuesday At Women's Club

Twenty members of the Tourist club enjoyed talks by Mrs. S. D. Hoover and Mrs. A. C. Tuttle when Mrs. J. C. Stout entertained at the Women's Club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hoover's paper was on "Religions of Mankind" and Mrs. Tuttle's informal discussion was entitled, "Let's Decorate for Christmas!"

Mrs. Hoover described the advancement of religion from primitive times to the present and traced its development through civilization in three ways: tribal, national and universal. She discussed in detail the religions of Egypt, Italy, Greece, China and Japan. "Isms" described by Mrs. Hoover were Hinduism, Buddhism, Mohammedanism, Confucionism and Judaism. In telling about these, she spoke of magic, superstition, spirits, ancestor-worship and the worship of idols. She stated that a survey of primitive religion gives light on Christianity today—especially at Christmas time.

All of the suggestions made by Mrs. Tuttle for decorating the home for Christmas were original. She stressed simplicity for effectiveness and demonstrated ways of making attractive arrangements for the mantel, vases, doors and tables. She made a lovely and unusual fruit circle to be used as a centerpiece for a Christmas breakfast able.

Hostesses for the Jan 5 meeting, which will be a luncheon at the Women's Club, will be Mrs. Elmer Post and Mrs. Frank Leavitt.

Probation Officer Speaks to Child Guidance Club

At the meeting of the Guild Guidance club which was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Moore, a Christmas program was enjoyed. John Bishop and George Ridenour presented sketches from Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol." A tap dance was given by Joyce and Joan Moore.

Speaker for the evening was Mrs. George Comer, Richland county probation officer. She discussed the causes of delinquency and what is being done to prevent it. After a short business session refreshments were served by Mrs. Harold Hamblin, Mrs Charles Freehafer, Mrs. L R. McGinty, Mrs. J M. Lehman, Mrs L J. Johnson, Mrs. W. M. Linton and Mrs Lionel Smaltz.

There [illegible] be a Christmas party for children of the members Dec 19 at the home of Mrs. Frank Breckinridge, 510 West Townview circle. The club will meet Jan. 11 at Mrs. L. D. Appleman's home, 170 Westwood. Mrs. Paul Ackerman and Mrs. Forrest Kimmel will be associate hostesses.

EVADINE SELBY WEDS LT. VERNON SMELTZER

Lovely Wedding In First Lutheran Church Tuesday Evening Unites Mansfield Couple; Reception Held at Colonial Guest House.

BEFORE the altar of the First Lutheran church, Miss Clara Evadine Selby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Selby, Wooster road, became the bride last evening of Lieut. Vernon Smeltzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Camp Smeltzer, 247 West Third street. Rev. Grover Swoyer performed the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock. The altar was effectively decorated with palms, ferns, two seven-branch candelabra with white tapers, and two baskets of white pompons, chrysanthemums and stevia.

The short program of nuptial music which preceded the exchange of vows included "Because," by D'Hardelto, "All for You," by Bertrand, and "The Boy in Khaki—The Girl in Lace," by Newman, presented by Mrs. Clayson Bell, organist, and Miss Meriam Culler, cousin of the bride, vocalist. The traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Bell.

Mr. Selby escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was of white gro-de-landra, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, basque waistline and long, tight sleeves with points over the hands. The very full skirt extended into a long train. Pleating trimmed the gown at the neck, waistline and edge of the sleeves. The bride carried a front style, fan-shaped bonquet of white camellias and bouvardia centered with a pale lavender orchid.

Miss Mary Lou Blair of Upper Sandusky, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Her taffeta gown was in a maize shade styled similar to the bride's dress. Miss Blair's bouquet was of yellow pompons, and roses and blue corn flowers tied with matching ribbons. She had a small arrangement of the same flowers in her hair

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Selby chose a brown dress with matching accessories. She had a corsage of Talisman roses tied with matching ribbons. Mrs. Smeltzer's dress was powder blue and her accessories were navy blue. Yellow roses formed her corsage.

Ushers for the ceremony were Robert Fink, Donald Zalinka and Carl Laubscher of Mansfield, and David Martin of Ashland. All are close friends of the bridegroom. Franklin Smeltzer of Lorain served as his brother's best man.

The reception for 60 guests was held at the Colonial Guest House immediately after the wedding. A large cake centered the table which also was decorated with tapers and the bouquets of the bride and her attendant. The Misses Jessie Bryner and Ruth Mengert presided at the table.

Lieut. and Mrs. Smeltzer left later for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For traveling the bride wore a brown costume suit with leopard trim. The orchid from her bouquet formed her corsage.

Mrs. Smeltzer was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and attended Wittenberg college. She is employed in the office of the Page's Dairy company and will continue to reside with her parents for the present. The bridegroom is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and attended Ashland college and Kent State university. He is a member of Phalanx fraternity and is now a second lieutenant at Camp Hood, Tex.

Program Given At Meeting of Legion Auxiliary

A Christmas program was enjoyed at the meeting of the American Legion auxiliary which was held at the Legion home Monday evening. Mrs. Marjorie Ludwig read a poem, "Peace on Earth," after which Christmas carols were sung by the assembly. David Weimer entertained with several piano selections and Charlotte Lemley sang, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" and "Remember Pearl Harbor." "Silent Night" was sung by Jean Boylan. Vocal solos by Margaret Lemley were "White Christmas" and "God Bless America." Jack Dickson concluded the program with a tap dance.

There was a gift exchange and luncheon was served in the dining room by Mrs. Pearl Leuthner and her committee. During the business session which was conducted by Mrs. Marie Dickson, announcements were made of gifts sent to the Dayton and Chillicothe hospitals, needy familes and the Xenia home. An indoor flag was presented to the Lincoln Heights school. Next regular meeting of the auxiliary will take place on Dec. 28.

Carpenter School Presents Program

A capacity crowd attended the annual Christmas program given by the pupils of Carpenter school Tuesday evening. The program was given under the direction of the teachers.

The fourth grade had the responsive reading, which was taken from the second chapter of Luke. "Fairest Lord Jesus" and "O Holy Night" was sung by the fifth and sixth grades, who also gave a play, "Substitute for Santa Claus." Another play, "Heart of Gold," was given by the first grade, "The Toy Shop," by the second grade, and the two combined presented "Popcorn Magic." A pantomime entitled "Christmas of 1942" was given by the third grade. School for the Deaf presented "The Christmas Story."

"Adjusting Our Health Program" is the topic for the next meeting, which is scheduled for Jan. 12.
